REGARDS GROSS
AS RESPONSIBLEConductor on Ill-Fated Freight Prefaces Testimony Before Coroner With an Opinion.

SWITCH REPORTED CLOSED

Possible Some Blame May Rest on
Freight Engineer Who is Related Here.

"This is a plain as daylight case and there isn't any reason for any mystery. I want to tell the truth and tell it carefully. There's only one thing to tell, and that's just what happened, and I'm not here to blame any one, but just to tell why that switch was not closed."

Speaking earnestly, Patrick J. Hines, freight conductor on C. H. & D. train No. 95, thus far prefaced his testimony before Coroner Durham of Marion county yesterday afternoon, when he made it clear to the coroner that he regarded Carl Gross, head brakeman of his own crew, responsible for the open switch through which train No. 36 plunged to a head-on collision with the freight early Wednesday morning.

It is barely possible that some responsibility for the wreck at Irvington may rest on the shoulders of Willis York, brother of Mrs. U. G. Beaver of this city and engineer on the freight with which the passenger collided.

P. J. Hines, conductor on the freight, gave his version of the wreck in a statement to Coroner Durham of Marion county late yesterday. He said he had sent a brakeman ahead to close the switch, and that the brakeman reported to him that Carl Gross, head brakeman, and Willis York, had told him that the switch had been closed.

Hines said that about half an hour before the wreck, his freight train had entered the siding in two parts. He received orders, he said, from the telegrapher in the tower not far away, to proceed to Julietta and pass the passenger train No. 36 there.

"I ordered the train out on the main track after I received the telegraphic orders, and had started the train to Julietta, when the engineer and I decided that we could not make Julietta in time. The engine had already gone dead a short time before at a hill, and we were afraid to risk going to Julietta.

"I ordered the train back into the switch in one piece, and we backed in at the east end. When the train arrived in the clear I told D. F. Fox, the rear brakeman, to go and see if the switch lined up with the main track. I told him I had to go to the telegraph station. I went to the telegraph station and then returned to the caboose.

Cox went forward, according to the testimony, and asked Gross and Willis York, the engineer of the freight train, whether the switch been closed. He reported to Hines, according to the testimony, that "we are in the clear and the switch is lined up for the main track."

That correspondence between the state railroad commission and officials of the C. H. & D. railroad relative to the failure of the company to push work on the installation of a block signal system on the eastern half of its Indiana line will be made public within the next few days, became known yesterday.

The correspondence will show, it is said, that the company's officials were warned several times that the commission was noting the lack of progress in the installation of the block signal system, which was ordered completed by January 1, 1913.

If the block system had been in

WOULD CONDEMN
LAND IN GLENWOODC. I. & W. Railway Co., Brings Proceedings in Circuit Court
Against Murphys

TO MAKE BETTER FACILITIES

The Cincinnati, Indianapolis & Western Railway Company brought suit in the circuit court today against Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Murphy of Glenwood to condemn a small triangular piece of ground for a part of the C. H. & D. station and terminal at Glenwood.

The plaintiff alleges it owns a right-of-way from Indianapolis to Hamilton, O., as well as other appurtenances necessary for the operation of a railroad. The railroad says it has made an effort to purchase the land.

Smith, Cambern & Smith are attorneys for the railroad. They say the land in question is a rectangular piece between the C. H. & D. and the I. & C. right-of-way which would make better facilities for unloading and loading freight cars.

TO BE THEIR 68TH
THANKSGIVINGSolomon and Mary Stone, Born and Reared Near Andersonville, Will
Enjoy Dinner as Usual.

ATE FIRST ONE IN OLD RUSH

It Consisted of Wild Turkey Which
Solomon Slew—Married
In Tyler's Term.

If both live until the last Thursday in November, Solomon and Mary Stone of Howard county, who were born and reared together and married in the vicinity of Andersonville in 1844, will set down together to partake of the sixty-eighth Thanksgiving dinner which they have prepared and eaten together. They are remembered by many people in the southeastern part of the county.

Solomon and Mary Stone were married when John Tyler was President of the United States. It was on October 17, 1844. They had their first Thanksgiving dinner together on the last Thursday of the following November. The turkey they had that day was a wild one, which Solomon shot in the woods near their home in the little village of Andersonville. The turkey which they will have this time is one which Mrs. Stone raised in her own poultry yard.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone are native Hoosiers. Both were born near the Rush-Franklin county line. Their parents came over the mountain from Virginia together and settled in the same neighborhood. Solomon and Mary were playmates, went to the same country school and with their parents attended the same church. They can not remember when the attachment which resulted in their marriage began, but they proudly say that neither ever knew any sweetheart but the other. Mary says that as near as she can remember they began "keeping company" in the fall of 1842. They started going together when Solomon "saw her home" the first time from a husking bee.

Mr. Stone was born March 11, 1823, and Mrs. Stone, November 13, 1827, which makes their ages respectively 89 and 85. "We were a country boy and a country girl when we were married," said Mrs. Stone, "and we are a country boy and a country girl today. We would not know what to do with ourselves in a city."

"That's right," broke in Solomon. "We have lived on a farm every day of our lives and we are going to stick to it to the end. We have never been rich, but we have got along. We own this farm, as good a hundred acres as there is in Howard county, and we do not owe a penny to any man in the world."

"We keep pretty well for old folks," said Solomon, "and we never think of being unhappy. Just once in a while we get a little lonely. You see there are none of our neighbors left. There is not a man or woman living in the neighborhood who was here when we came. The last of them, Robert etty, who owned the next farm east, was buried only a few weeks ago. Mary and I are all that's left, and that's the saddest thing we have to think about."

Mr. and Mrs. Stone are the parents of five children, all sons, of whom four are living, all within an hour's ride of the old homestead. Their eldest son, the Rev. John H. Stone, of Kokomo, was a soldier in the war of the rebellion, running away in 1862, when only a boy, to enlist.

Mrs. Stone likes to exhibit the family Bible to her friends. It is a

DEVOTION OF 40
HOURS TO BEGINSpecial Services at St. Mary's Catholic Church Will Start Sunday
Morning.

LASTS 'TILL TUESDAY NIGHT

Intended to Set Forth Prominently
Catholic Doctrine of Real
Presence.

Beginning with High Mass at ten o'clock on Sunday morning and closing with solemn procession on Tuesday evening, St. Mary's congregation will observe what is called the Forty Hours' Devotion.

This devotion so named in memory of the forty hours during which the body of our Lord remained in the Sepulcher, is intended to set forth prominently the Catholic doctrine of the Real Presence. The members of the church are all expected to receive Holy Communion during this time and the Blessed Sacrament is exposed for the adoration of the faithful who visit the church at all hours of the day, "to watch a while and pray."

Besides the morning Masses, there will be services each of the three evenings at 7:30 o'clock.

Strangers will be welcome at all these services. The exercises will be conducted by the Rev. James Devery of Winchester, Tenn., a member of the Paulist Fathers. This is the well-known society of priests, of whom many are converts to the church and one of whose aims is the preaching of Catholic truths to non-Catholics. Their work has been signally successful.

Graham Ong, a former Columbus boy, well known here and grandson of the late David Graham, has resigned his position as paymaster and manager of time and cost, with the Flanders Motor Company, at Detroit, to go with the Sterling Motor Company, as general office manager. The Sterling Motor Company is temporarily located at Detroit, but will move to Flint, Mich., about the first of the year to its large modern factory, now under construction, adds the Columbus Republican.

The Sterling Company is one of the large factories combined under the Republic Motor Company, a $63,000,000 corporation, recently incorporated in New Jersey, and will build motors exclusively for the various automobile companies in the Republic corporation.

Mr. Ong has been with the Flanders Motor Company since its conception as the Metzger Motor Car Company, in 1909, and through its various changes in management he has always retained the confidence of the directors.

FOR THAT POST OFFICE JOB

Two candidates for the postoffice appointment who have not been prominently mentioned in connection with the job the now said to be on the trail which may lead to success. They are Samuel H. Trabue, Sr., father of Samuel L. Trabue, the Democratic county chairman, and Will Wallace, former editor of the local Democratic newspaper and for many years a staunch party worker.

It is stated that not only Mr. Trabue but James Casady, vicechairman of the county central committee, who has been mentioned before, both believe that they are on the inside track and will get the appointment. There are said to be any number of Democrats who would most willingly take the job if they knew how to persuade Finly H. Gray to recommend them.

FIRE CAUSES LOSS
OF ABOUT $350,000Manufacturing Building at Van
Camp's Packing Plant in Indianapolis is Burned Down.

LOCAL MAN, STOCKHOLDER

Fire in VanCamp's packing plant in Indianapolis early this morning entailed a loss estimated to be between $300,000 and $350,000. Efficient work by the firemen saved the plant from complete destruction and confined the blaze to the manufacturing building.

W. M. Pearce of this city was stockholder in this concern. The loss will not be more than twenty per cent of the total property destroyed as the insurance will cover eighty per cent of the loss.

The fire was discovered in the catsup room and turned in by the night watchman. Shortly after a stream of water had been thrown on the flames, a water main broke and hindered the firemen in checking the fire. Falling walls endangered the lives of the firemen.

STOCKHOLDERS
TO HAVE TO PAYPasses For County Fair Are Abolished at Annual Meeting This Afternoon.

VOTE BY BALLOT IS 27 TO 17

Suggestion to Dispense With Floral
Hall is Stubbornly Opposed—
Officers Are Elected.

Forty-four stockholders of the Rush county Fair Association, at the annual meeting of the association in the court house this afternoon, voted 27 to 17, to abolish passes for stockholders. Hereafter stockholders will have to pay admission as do any other patrons.

The officers, in issuing the call for the meeting, emphasized the necessity of devising plans to perpetuate the county fair. This is to be one of the methods in the attempt to put it on a paying basis. All that stockholders have ever made on their investment is admission to the fair.

John C. Blackledge threw a scare into the meeting when he suggested that the floral hall be dispensed with and that the premium money be used in offering substantial prizes for township exhibits. Mr. Blackledge asked that men who wanted to be elected directors think over that suggestion.

"With all due respect to the fancy work display," said Mr. Blackledge, "it looks like the floral hall might be dispensed with. I believe the system is wrong. We give premiums to a lot of stuff that is dragged around from one fair to another. Have you been to the Connersville fair? I am ashamed for a Fayette county farmer to come over here and see our agricultural exhibit."

This aroused opposition at once. "While I am in favor of boosting the agricultural show," said John Megee, "I am a suffragette. It would be a mistake to abolish the women's department. When the women are not here I am going to defend them."

Omer Stevens said the plan of township premiums had been tried and failed. He said the scheme was used three years in succession.

"Yes, but what did you offer?" asked John Blackledge. "Give them real premiums."

"Furnish us with the money and we'll offer the premiums," said Will Brown, president.

"Take some money out of the speed department and put it in premiums," volunteered Samuel H. Trabue.

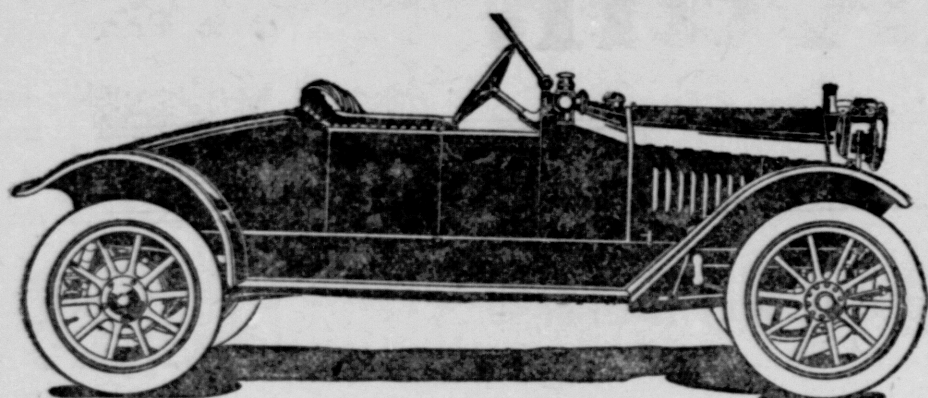

The motion of John D. Megee that a legislative committee be appointed to look after the interests of the association in the next legislature met with a lot of nonsensical opposition.

J. Q. Thomas said it would be unconstitutional for the county to give any financial aid to the county fair. He said it would be illegal for the people to be taxed on an institution that was owned by private interests. This started a discussion when the original motion was for the appointment of a legislative committee. The motion was finally carried and the committee will be appointed by the president later.

Will L. Brown was re-elected president. Will A. Alexander was elected vice-president, J. V. Young was chosen to succeed himself as treasurer.

Ed Adkins was unanimously named director from Ripley township, and William Knecht was chosen from Washington township. Samuel Cohee, John L. Clark and Samuel Kirkpatrick were nominated for director from Center and a ballot had to be taken. Directors were to be elected from Orange, Anderson and Richland in addition. The secretary is named by the directors.

TARIFF REVISION NOW IS ASSURED

The President-Elect Will Call a Special Session.

NOT LATER THAN APRIL 15 NEXT

Holding That the Interests of Business Require That All Uncertainty as to What Particular Items of the Tariff Are to Be Revised Shall Be Removed as Soon as Possible, Governor Wilson Makes Statement.

New York, Nov. 16.—Not later than April 15 of next year, President-Elect Wilson has just announced, he will call congress together in extraordinary session to revise the tariff. In his statement made public on the eve of his departure for a four-weeks' vacation in Bermuda, he says that he has determined upon this course not only because he was elected on a platform which declared for an immediate downward revision of the tariff schedules, but also because he feels it is due to the business interests of the country that they should be relieved of all uncertainty as to what the general purpose of the incoming administration at Washington is.

Governor Wilson's formal statement follows: "I shall call congress together in extraordinary session not later than April 15. I shall do this not only because I think that the pledges of the party ought to be redeemed as promptly as possible, but also because I know it to be in the interest of business that all uncertainty as to what the particular items of tariff revision are to be, should be removed as soon as possible."

While the platform adopted at Baltimore declared that the Democratic party believed that any other tariff than one designed for revenue purposes is unconstitutional, cognizance was taken of the fact that a policy of protection has so ingrained itself into the commercial interests of this country that it would be unwise to attempt anything more than a gradual elimination of the duties considered obnoxious. The demand that this gradual reduction be instituted immediately was nevertheless unequivocal.

Beyond his bald statement that he will call an extraordinary session the president-elect has made no comment on the situation other than that so far as he was concerned the pledges of his party and its platform would be carried out.

Governor Wilson sailed at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Bermuda on the steamer Bermudian, and will rest there until Dec. 16. One of his first acts on arriving in Bermuda will be to call upon the governor of Bermuda and to request him that he be permitted to spend his time there without recognition of his official status either as governor of New Jersey or as president-elect of the United States.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and their two younger daughters, the Misses Jessie and Eleanor Wilson.

A BIG JOB

It Becomes Necessary For Uncle Sam to Count His Money.

Washington, Nov. 16.—"Speak softly" will be the admonition to all visitors to the treasury department for the next few weeks. Uncle Sam will be counting his money. This count is made necessary officially by the change in the offices of United States treasurer, Lee McClung being succeeded by Carmi Thompson of Ohio.

When the formal transfer is made the new treasurer will give a receipt to the outgoing treasurer for more than one billion dollars in gold and silver and paper money.

All of the paper money is counted piece by piece. Much of the gold is counted that way, but practically all the silver and some of the gold is counted by weighing the sealed bags which contain it on scales that are delicately poised so that the slightest variation from the ascertained weight of a bag of coin would be accurately recorded.

It Was Not Murder.

Boston, Nov. 16.—Marjorie G. Powers, whose body was found in a bathtub at a local hotel, was not murdered nor did she commit suicide. Her death, according to a statement issued by Medical Examiner Magrath, who performed an autopsy, was due to natural causes—enlargement or dilatation of the heart.

F. B. JOHNSON AND COMPANY.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS EXPECTED.

Tariff Revision Likely to Be Taken Up Soon After March 4.

Almost the first duty that President Wilson will perform will be to issue a call for an extraordinary session of congress to revise the tariff, according to the prevailing opinion in Washington. Three tariff bills, passed by congress and vetoed by President Taft, need only to be passed again to get the signature of the Democratic president. It is also held that the Democratic platform pledges Governor Wilson to issue the call.

What the Democratic platform does declare for is the "immediate downward revision" of the tariff, and this expression since the campaign of 1908 has been held to mean revision at an extra session. Governor Wilson himself made no direct statement on the subject, though when President Taft warned the country that the Democratic candidate was pledged to a revision of the tariff at an extra session Mr. Wilson smiled in a way that seemed to indicate his willingness to accept the indictment.

The Democratic leaders in congress confidently expect an extra session, and they look forward to it eagerly as an opportunity for at last passing bills which for the past two years have lacked only the president's signature to become law. Undoubtedly with a Democratic senate those bills will be modified and the La Follette amendments will probably be discarded. But it can be confidently stated that the bills that Mr. Wilson will be asked to sign will not be far different in principle from the measures which Mr. Taft vetoed.

In the bills which passed one house, but not the other, changes of a more sweeping character will be made at the next congress. Some of these measures were hurriedly drafted, and obviously for political effect.

The opinion is that the extra session will be called shortly after inauguration day and that it will last well into the summer. The measures already passed can be adapted to present conditions by Chairman Oscar W. Underwood in short order, and they will pass with only perfunctory debate. But after them will come other measures on which the ways and means committee will begin work as soon as congress reconvenes in December.

TWO FOR SENATE CHANGE.

Thirty-four Other States Must Approve Direct Election of Senators.

Only two states, Massachusetts and Minnesota, have so far acted upon the constitutional amendment submitted to them by congress proposing the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people instead of by the state legislatures.

The failure of more states to act is due to the fact that very few legislators have had sessions since the joint resolution proposing this amendment was passed last May by congress and certified by Secretary of State Knox to the governors of the states. The day after this proclamation was received in Massachusetts the lower branch of its legislature ratified the amendment.

and it was at once unanimously adopted by the senate.

Thirty-nine state legislatures will meet in January, and this will afford them a chance to act. Most of them are expected to ratify the amendment. Thirty-six states must assent to the change to make it a valid part of the constitution, so that if six of the states whose legislatures meet next year fail or refuse to ratify it its adoption would be thrown over until 1914.

Height of Diplomacy.

It was at the British embassy at Washington. A distinguished Englishman was delivering a lecture, and in his audience were many big diplomats and high society people. Just as the lecturer spread on the ambient atmosphere his most gorgeous verbal picture a large German tried to sit down quietly in a chair. He did sit down, achieving a transfer from the chair to the floor with a great clatter, which peeved the lecturer and annoyed the guests. Everybody in the room turned around and glared in the direction from which the noise had come. But that German was too smart for them. Having hurled himself against the floor he stayed there, breathing a fine mixture of wax and meal, which had been rubbed in preparatory to the dancing that was to come later.

After the lecture was over Mr. Bryce, the British ambassador, found and shook hands with the astute German, remarking:

"Your fall and subsequent recumbent position were the most exquisite piece of diplomacy I ever saw in Washington."—Popular Magazine.

Discovered Through Chance.

By mere chance Professor Roentgen suspended a Crookes tube, through which an electric glow was playing, over a table that had a package of photographic plates in a drawer underneath. On the table happened to lie a bunch of keys. When the plates were taken out to be used they were found to be impressed with shadowy images of the keys. So the wonderful X rays were discovered. In this case, too, a frog chanced to play an interesting part. One was put, with other objects, on the table in order to get a shadow photograph on a plate in the drawer, and when the photograph was developed the skeleton of the frog was revealed in the picture. Thus it was learned that X ray photography could be employed to picture the internal parts of living animals.—New York Journal.

Call Us North Americans.

An Argentine peculiarity, noticeable also in Chile, is that many of the citizens begrudge our monopoly of the title of "Americans." They catalogue us at all possible times under "N" instead of "A." They speak of us as North Americans or as "Yankis" and call our minister the "North American minister," quite ignoring Mexico and Canada. Certain Americans desirous of securing an increase of our trade with South America and of placing in every possible manner the South Americans, overlooking the practical side of the question, have acquiesced in the local prejudice and speak of themselves as North Americans, even though they do not address their letters to the "United States of North America."—Detroit Free Press.

MEYER'S NAVAL RESERVE BILL

Put Into Form, It Adds 21,000 Men to the Navy.

SOON READY FOR CONGRESS

Circulars Sent Out to Former Members of Service Asking Them to Join New Organization Bring Flood of Replies. Scheme Generally Indorsed.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer has about completed the collection of a vast amount of data and information regarding the possibilities of a great United States reserve naval force, such as that provided for in a bill which he submitted to congress last winter. Through Assistant Secretary of the Navy Winthrop a circular appeal has been issued to all former officers and enlisted men of the navy and marine corps asking for particulars as to age and occupation. Hundreds of replies have already been received which, in a tabulated form, will be presented to congress with another bill during the coming session.

The bill which Mr. Meyer will send to congress this year provides for the enrollment for five years of former naval men, subject to call to service in the regular navy in time of war. Members of the naval reserve may enter active service for periods not exceeding one year at one time. Line officers shall be enrolled in the ranks from ensign to lieutenant to the extent of 50 per cent of the regular off-cers. Officers above these ranks in good standing, who resigned within ten years, are to have the rank they held when they quit the service.

Twenty-one Thousand Men on the List.

There are now about 21,000 former navy men, a large percentage of whom would respond to a call in case of war. The circular issued by Assistant Secretary Winthrop says: "To the officers and men who have honorably left the navy, the reserve of which they are to constitute a special part, called the ex-service branch, offers all that is to be found in the great societies that have followed each war. Where men have served through similar experience of hardships and pleasure of excitements and contests and have then been separated the desire grows strong within them to renew old associations and keep alive together their experiences."

"This spirit has given creation to the Society of the Cincinnati, the Aztec society, the Loyal Legion, the Grand Army of the Republic and many others. Men who serve in the navy have experiences unlike those of any other class of citizens because they are so vastly more varied. They extend over all the world. They include every feature of the restless sea, and to nearly every man of the navy there is the memory of some active military campaign, larger or smaller."

"It is to keep alive those associations and thus keep active the interest in the navy that the department's plan provides for local organizations and the return at intervals of the members of the reserve to the active fleet."

EDDY ESTATE SETTLED.

Christian Science Church Will Receive About $2,000,000.

Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, had in Massachusetts at the time of her death $2,843,75 in personal property and real estate valued at $155,000, according to the report of Thomas W. Street, Frederick E. Jennings and John

W. Worthington, who were appointed to appraise the estate by the Suffolk county probate court.

All the personal property goes to the Christian Science church, under the decision of the supreme court of New Hampshire, which sustained the will of Mrs. Eddy. The entire amount which the New Hampshire administrator will turn over to the church is about $2,000,000.

The Massachusetts supreme court, which has jurisdiction over the $155,000 of real estate within the commonwealth, has decided that the statute bars the Christian Science church from receiving this property as left by Mrs. Eddy's will, but that the property may be administered as a charitable trust by the trustees appointed by the court.

OFF THE GRASS, FRESHIES!

That's the Latest "Don't" at Precise Cornell.

Another rule has been added to the long list of don'ts which upper class custom prescribes for the freshmen at Cornell. The latest is "Don't walk on the grass," and the upper classmen have appointed committees to station at various parts of the campus to see that the rule is obeyed.

The new rule was adopted in the interest of the "campus beautiful," particularly the picturesque quadrangle which at present is intersected by at least a dozen different well-trodden paths. Hereafter only the sidewalks and cinder paths laid out by the authorities are to be traversed, and freshmen violating this rule will receive the same summary punishment handed out to those of their number who forget to wear the little gray cap or appearing in the spring without their coats.

A Treasure.

When Lincoln was practicing law a client came to him and wanted to know if something couldn't be done to protect him from his wife. He said she locked him out nights and threw dishes at him and battered him up with a club. She scolded him day and night and consistently and continuously made life miserable for him.

"Have you thought of getting a divorce?" inquired Lincoln.

"No, no; I don't want a divorce. Why, I wouldn't leave th' old woman for anything."

"You wouldn't! After all that abuse? And why not?"

"Because, squire, that old woman of mine can make the best flapjacks in Sangamon county."—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

A Dilatory Painter.

One of the characteristics of Sir Thomas Lawrence, the portrait painter, was dilatoriness. "Lord Normanton," says a writer, "must have had the patience of a Job wedded to the politeness of a Grandson, for, although in 1818 Lady Normanton had already been sitting off and on for three years, I find him still in 1824 discussing in the politest manner what the background of her ladyship's picture shall be and only venturing in the mildest way to remind Sir Thomas that he had also himself been sitting to him ever since the year 1815!" The portrait was delivered in 1827.

Odd Marriage Belief.

An unmarried man or woman of marriageable age is something that is rarely seen in the Fiji islands. The reason of this is not far to seek. The natives believe that if a person dies while in an unmarried state his or her soul is doomed to wander about through endless ages of eternity in an intermediate region between heaven and hades. At the end of each moon they are allowed to look into heaven but are never permitted to enter.

Fielding and Batting.

"What do you think of Fielding?" asked a young lady of a graduate of one of our universities with whom she had been talking about the early English novelists.

"Oh," was the answer, "it's important, of course, but it isn't worth much unless there is good batting."

PAY OF ENGINEERS IS TO BE STANDARDIZED

Important Victory for Men On Eastern Roads.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—A decision has been reached by the arbitration committee selected to decide between the eastern railroads and their locomotive engineers, and its report will be made public shortly.

The effect of the decision of the arbitrators, according to unofficial advice, will be to "standardize" the pay of the engineers on forty-eight eastern roads, which means a victory in an important point for the employees. It will mean a decided raise in wages for the men employed by practically all of the roads except the New York Central and the Pennsylvania systems, but how many million dollars this means was not revealed.

The meeting in Chicago was of the sub-committee of the arbitration committee which met to dispose of certain details. It is hinted that the report of the arbitrators will not be unanimous, but that Messrs. Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, and Morrissey, president of the Railroad Employes and Investors' society, will file a minority report as a matter of form, each man disagreeing with the findings of the majority, which, however, binds them under the arbitration agreement.

In the long list of grievances filed by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on behalf of the men last February, the principal demand was for a standardization of pay for all roads such as is in force in the west. The representatives of the railroads declined at once to accede to the demands, and for a day or two a general strike was threatened.

Frankly, we'd hate to be in the "near shoe" business! We'd hate to carry lines of shoes that sell only because their price is small. TELEPHONE NUMBER, 1111.

Saturday, November 16, 1912.

Democrats Apathetic.

Either the Democrats were apathetic this year or else a large number of them voted for the Progressive candidates. Considering the large natural increase in population since Bryan ran in 1900 the following from the Cincinnati Enquirer calls for some explanation:

It seems quite evident from the returns upon the popular vote already received that Mr. Wilson's popular vote will not reach the total of the popular vote given to Mr. Bryan in 1896, or 1900, or in 1908, and yet how different the result in the Electoral College of the states!

It will be a most interesting exhibit of voting results in the election of our Presidents if that should be the case, and in order that the readers of The Enquirer may have the data of the popular votes in the former elections before them for comparison with the result of the one just passed we publish the statistics of the years named above.

In 1896 Bryan received a total vote of 6,502,925. In 1900 his vote was 6,358, 133, while in 1908 it totaled 6,409,104.

In the great state of New York, with every county reported unofficially, Mr. Wilson's vote is given as 647,994, while Mr. Bryan received in that state in 1900, 678,386, and in 1908, 667,468 votes, as stated officially.

The popular vote in Maryland, as published, gives Mr. Wilson a total of 112,122, while Bryan received in 1900, 122,217, and in 1908, 115,908. The vote in Delaware given to Mr. Wilson this year is unofficially stated at 20,431, while Bryan, in 1908, was credited with 22,071.

The popular vote returns in the other states will be watched with great interest by the voters of the country, and if they continue to run in the same general trend, the query will come to the minds of many, what states, if any, would have been left for either National Progressives or Republicans, if the gentleman from Nebraska should have been the candidate this year.

Church Advertising.

Under the caption "Church Advertising Spreading," the Continent, the national Presbyterian weekly, calls attention in its current issue to the benefits derived by many churches advertising in the daily press.

Several instances are cited where display advertisements have resulted in the churches being crowded. In part the article states:

"The few venturesome souls who first tried in the daily press to advertise churches, and religion in general, have found not only that their efforts have been well rewarded by increased attendance at the churches in behalf of which the advertising campaigns were conducted, but there has been more and more approval of their conduct by the religious press as well as by the daily press.

"The Continent was one of the first publications to advocate publicity and advertising by churches, and during the last year and a half has printed a number of articles telling of the progress of church advertising and has suggested new plans.

"Ministers in many parts of the country who have tried definite display announcements of regular and special church services have found that they have increased their attendance, and as a natural concomitant the financial support has also increased. This has brought about general enthusiasm for church work and has had a reflex effect upon the pastors, as well as people, which has been decidedly beneficial."

The Turks are going to be kicked down the back stairs, but the governments that have maintained them in their cruel power so many years continue to occupy the best chairs in the parlor.

Some of the Democrats are so sensitive about cause and effect that they won't want anybody to mention that fire will burn, water drown, or a misplaced switch make trouble.

A Democratic senator remarks that there are Democratic protectionists. No doubt of it, and they will shortly realize the folly of voting for a freetrade party.

Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Indiana are the only states in the Union that batted over 200,000,000 bushels in corn production for the season of 1912.

Battleships can hit a small target at a distance of seven miles, but this will not suffice to keep the Balkan allies from reaching salt water somewhere.

Considering the number of letters of advice that Gov. Wilson is receiving, some friend should present him with a farmer's silo as a waste basket.

Owing to a singular defect in the constitution, the new Congress can't begin making political capital for 1916, until after March 4.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking AboutPARTY WILL ENDURE.

(Muncie Press.)

The Republican party, in the opinion of The Press, will endure and in due time again come to power by courageous adherence to republican principles and policies, in the firm belief that the logic of events will drive the people back to the Republican standard.

Republicanism to the real Republican is something more than a league for obtaining office. Whether or not it rules is a less important question than whether or not it is right.

Those who have faith in Republican principles, and faith also in the ultimate sound judgement of the people, are not fearful as to the future, and are not now looking around for some basis of compromise with leaders who have sought to wreck the Republican party and profess to believe in principles and policies that are utterly inconsistent with Republicanism. Nor are they seeking the adoption of the party's creed to theories that have caught the fleeting fancy of the hour. Republicans from conviction and not Republicans for office will manifest now the calm confidence of William McKinley, who, standing in the shadow of 1890 and 1892 had faith to proclaim his continuing confidence in the principles of his party and his belief in their ultimate triumph, and saw at last the sunrise of 1894 and 1896.

The concern of Republicans should be centered on reconciling their party creed with the principles of right and justice, and not with the demands of adventurers, or opportunists.

BRAINS NOT AFFECTED

Dog and Cat Found Not to Have Rabies.

The brains of a dog and a cat were examined yesterday at the state pathological laboratory, in Indianapolis. Dr. V. A. Shanklin of Terre Haute asked an examination of the brain of a cat which bit two children, and E. C. Cope of Dunreith, Ind., sent in the head of a dog which had bitten his son, Willie Cope, 11 years old. A microscopic examination failed to show that either animal had been afflicted with rabies.

Well Known Woman Who Visits County Fair Each Year Meets With Accident.

AT HER CONNERSVILLE HOME.

Mrs. Caroline Jessop received a fractured skull in a fall at her home on West Hill last evening about four-thirty and it has not been decided yet by the attending physicians whether the wound is serious, says the Connersville Examiner.

Mrs. Jessop tripped on a rug and falling forward struck her head on the door casing. A deep gash about three inches long was inflicted on the right side of the forehead and three stitches were required to close the wound. For a time she was unconscious but soon revived and has been conscious since her recovery from the first shock. Her condition is somewhat improved today.

Mrs. Jessop is seventy-four years of age and is known all over the middle west through her annual visits to the larger county and State fairs. She has followed the confectionery business for years and, assisted by her sons, visits the fairs with her large stand.

LINDSAY TAKES ELEVEN FIRSTS

Raleigh Horseman in the Money Twenty-Two Times Out of Twenty-Six Starts.

HAS 14 GREEN HORSES NOW

Frank Lindsay of Raleigh made an enviable record with his string of fast horses last season. Mr. Lindsay finished the season in October at Hamilton, O., and up to that time had started 26 times, winning 11 firsts, 6 seconds, 3 thirds, 2 fourths, and only four times behind the money. During this time he campaigned J. C. Patchen, pacer, 2:13 1/4; Iris, trotter, 2:24 1/4; Billy H., pacer, 2:13 1/4; Queer Andy, pacer, 2:16 1/4; Maud K., pacer, 2:19 1/4; Anderson Wilkes, Jr., trotter, 2:19 1/4; Alfreston, trotter, 2:29 1/4 and Squire Kiger, a green trotter by Allertell.

Frank now has 14 green colts to winter and has fine prospects for the best stable he ever had, next season. He was at Tipton, Ind., last week and secured Fred Cole, trotter record 2:07 1/4, and Jack Hanby, a green trotter by Harry McKeon, to train for next year. A remarkable fact concerning Fred Cole, 2:07 1/4, is that he is the first stud ever brought to Rush county with a trotting record as fast as 2:17 1/4, and he is also the first stud ever in Rush county that sired a trotter as fast as 2:07 1/4, he being the sire of Anna Cole, 2:07 1/4, trotter.

REGARDS CROSS AS RESPONSIBLE

effect on both the eastern and western end of the road, it is said by railroad men, that the Irvington wreck could not have occurred.

It is known that M. H. Hovey, block signal inspector of the commission, reported to the members of the commission that there was no excuse for the delay of the railroad company to push the work of installing block signals on the eastern end of its Indiana property.

Carl Gross, head brakeman on the freight train, which figured in the wreck, could not have been wholly to blame for the wreck, according to men who examined the official rule book of the C., H. & D. railroad.

The railroads are compelled to file a copy of their rules for trainmen with the railroad commission of Indiana.

In the C., H. & D. rule book, Page 34, Rule 104 reads: "Switches must be left in proper position after having been used. Conductors are responsible for the position of the switches used by them and their trainmen, except where switch tenders are stationed."

"A switch must not be left open for a following train unless in charge of a trainman of such train."

Rule 104 declares: "When a train backs in on a siding to meet or to be passed by another train, the engine man, when his train is into clear must see that the switch is properly set for the main track. Enginemen must know that switches are properly set before they pull in or out of siding or other tracks."

THE ROOT OF EVIL
BY THOMAS DIXON

Copyright, 1911, by Thomas Dixon

"Now, Jim, down to business! You can see that I have the cash. What I must have to do the big thing I've dreamed is a right hand man whom I can trust with my money, my body and my soul. He must be a man with brains and farseeing eyes. A man who will fight to the death and be loyal with every breath, who will work day and night, a man of iron nerve, iron muscle and a heart of steel. Come in with me, Jim, for all you're worth, with all your brain and will and personality, without a single reservation and I'll give you a partnership of one-fourth interest in my annual income, and I'll guarantee that it shall never be less than a million a year."

Stuart sprang to his feet and stared at Bivens, gasping.

"You mean this—are you serious? I expected the offer of a generous salary, but this is simply stunning."

"I told you I'd make you a proposition so big and generous you couldn't get away from it. But mind you, I've the best reasons for making it. We are entering the last phase of a world struggle for financial supremacy. This country is to be the real center of modern power. We must become and will become quickly the economic masters of the world. When that happens somebody is going to be master here."

Bivens rose and paced back and forth a moment.

"Somebody's going to be master here, Jim," he repeated, "and it's not going to be a mob, the stupid, howling, slobbering thing that clutched at your throat that day in front of my bank."

"No."

"Nor will it be a clumsy soulless corporation called a 'trust,' either, a thing that can be badgered and hounded by every hungry, thieving politician who gets into office. The coming master of masters, the king of kings will be a man—a man on whose imperial word will hang the fate of empires. I met the king of America the other day in this parlor. He sent for me. You can bet I answered the call. He made me eat dirt and swear that I liked the taste of it. But I'll get even with him yet!"

Two livid spots suddenly appeared on the swarthy cheeks and he choked into silence for a moment, continuing: "The world is waiting for its real master—not a multi-millionaire, but the coming billionaire. The king of kings is yet to come. If I had been ready in this parlor with the capital I have today I could have made a billion. With the power and experience I now have and one such man as you on whom I can depend I'd double my fortune every year. That means that in five years I will be a billionaire, and only forty-two."

"A billion dollars will double itself in seven years. At forty-two I'd be worth a billion. At forty-nine I'd have two billions. At fifty-eight I'd be worth four billions—and just old enough to really begin to do things."

"Give me one billion answerable to my will alone and I can rule this there before. He had always avoided the spot. He smiled now at the childishness of his attitude toward Nan.

The full moon had just risen and flooded the drive and park and river with silvery mystery. He studied the effects of the building with wonder and admiration. Evidently Bivens had given his architects a free hand and they had wrought a poem in marble. So fascinated was Stuart with the beauty and perfection of the great house he walked around the block before entering, viewing it from every angle. What a strange thing, this medieval palace, standing in stately beauty in the midst of the hideous, ugly uniformity of the most modern, unromantic and materialistic city of the world! What was its meaning?

Had a new master of the world really been born? Surely his like had never been seen in the history of man—this modern money maniac, this strange creature of iron muscles, always hurrying, daring, scheming, plotting, with never a moment's relaxation.

Stuart was shown into the drawing room by a powdered flunky whose costume was designed by one of the court tailors of Europe. While awaiting the arrival of the mistress of the house he looked about the room with increasing amazement. He found the perfection of grace, elegance, quiet richness and surprising beauty.

He began to realize for the first time the triumph of the woman who had bartered him for gold. His eye rested on a life size portrait of Nan done by the foremost artist of Europe. The artist had caught the secret of her character and expressed it with genius in the poise of the superb form, the incarnation of sensuous, soulless beauty dominated by keen intelligence.

He wondered if she really showed the ten years added to her age. At least he knew that she had not been happy. There was some consolation in that. Her ceaseless efforts to win back his friendship had left no room for doubt. He sank deep into the great chair and silently waited her coming.

When Nan's radiant figure appeared in the doorway, her bare arm extended, her lips parted in a tender smile, Stuart knew that his face was red. The fact that he knew it increased his confusion until the whole room became a blur. Her hand touched his. The shock was sobering; he remembered himself and smiled.

"What a long, long time, Jim!"

"A thousand years—I think, Nan," he stammered.

"Nine hundred, to be exact, sir, but better late than never. I began to think your stubbornness would postpone this call until the next world. Mr. Bivens was detained downtown on business. I am awfully sorry he's not here to join in my welcome. But I am disappointed in you."

"Why?"

"My vanity is hurt. I expected to find you, after nine years, with deep lines of suffering written on your face. You are better looking than ever. The few gray hairs about your temples are extremely becoming. Your honors have given you a new repose, dignity and reserve power."

"Allow me to return the compliment by saying that you are even a more startling disappointment to me. I was sure that I should find you broken. You are far more beautiful than ever. The only changes I see merely add to your power—the worldly wisdom which marriage writes on every woman's face, a new strength, a warmth and fascination and a conscious joy at which I wonder and rage."

"Why wonder and rage?"

She drew him gently to a seat by her side, leaned forward and gazed smilingly at him.

"When I see you tonight in all this splendor, so insolently happy?"

Nan sprang to her feet, laughing.

"You are not in trouble?"

The doctor lifted his head gently.

"My troubles are so much lighter than those of the people I know I can't think of them. So many of my friends and patients have given up in this parlor. So many have died for the lack of bread. I'll let you know if I'm in trouble myself."

He paused and pressed Stuart's hand.

"I'm glad you asked me. The sun will shine brighter today. I must hurry."

With a swing of his stalwart form and a generous wave of his hand he was gone.

When Stuart reached the drive he alighted and walked slowly toward the Bivens palace. He had never been

A PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE

In Obtaining a Plan For a Detective Story

By NATHAN JERNEGAN

I am a literary man—that is, if detective stories may be called literature. Of course my work involves the inventive faculty, and invention involves mental labor. I often thought that if I could obtain real cases, such as the sharp detective works out, I would be able to dispense with the hardest part of my work. I applied to the police for such cases, but all I got was the tracking of a thief, a burglar or a murderer by some slip made by the perpetrator or some one else. There was not enough in it to keep a reader in anxious expectation through several hundred closely printed pages.

One morning I had a real case come to me without any inquiry. I was sitting in my study racking my brain for material when a maid entered and told me there was an expressman at the door with a package for me. I went downstairs, receipted for it and, taking it to my den, removed the cover, opened the box and saw some jewels. Removing a tray, there lay twenty or thirty stones apparently of great value. I examined the address on the wrapper, thinking that I had receipted for something intended for another, but there were my name and address correctly written in every particular.

What did it mean? Instead of spending the rest of the morning trying to invent a detective story, I was occupied in endeavoring to explain why and from whom these jewels had been sent me. I found the job more difficult than producing a plot. At last I made up my mind that I must go about it methodically, just as a detective begins work in a criminal case.

First I went to the express office to see if I could learn there who sent the package, but no one knew anything about it. The expressmen don't keep records of the senders of miscellaneous packages. The next question was, "Are the jewels real or imitation?" This I might learn by submitting them to an expert. But until the mystery was explained I did not care to have any one but myself know that they were in my possession. They might be stolen property, and I had no mind to go to jail as the thief. However, I selected one of a few small stones I found in the tray and took it to a dealer in gems for inspection. He pronounced it genuine.

I returned to my study, threw myself into an easy chair and began to ponder. The jewelry had been sent me by some one whom I did not know, for I had never before seen the handwriting. There could have been no mistake as to the intention. But what was back of the intention?

Suddenly an explanation flashed on my brain like the flame of a gun at night. The jewels had been stolen, and whoever had stolen them, fearing to be caught with them in his possession, had sent them away. After all, was not that a good scheme? Infernal machines and poisoned food had been sent by express and the shipper was never discovered. The thief would doubtless open communication with me after the danger their possession would bring him had passed.

Then there was another flash in my brain, and another idea was born. I had a detective case before me that I might work out myself and make it the theme of a thrilling tale. How should I begin? Attempt to discover the owner of the gems? No; it would be better to my purpose that I should make that a separate problem. Should I take the police into my confidence? By no means—at least till the denouement, when the guilty party had been traced through the labyrinth of circumstance and the hero detective, pointing his finger at him, cries, "Thou art the man!" My plan would be to show up the ingenuity of my hero in contrast with the stupidity of the police.

Should I advertise the jewels in such a way that the thief would recognize that they were the property in which he was interested? Not till he had time to feel assured that those hunting the jewels were not on his track. But this would involve delay, and I was anxious to pull the thread of my investigations at once. So I advertised that if the party who had misdirected some property sent by express would address me at the office of the newspaper containing the ad, he would learn something to his advantage.

I received no reply to this, but very soon a note came through the mail stating that certain property had been addressed to me by mistake and if I would return it, asking no questions, half the value would be deducted. It was plain from this that my theory was correct. The jewels had been stolen, and the thief was inclined to bribe me to return them to him without giving him away. To ease my conscience he said the matter rested on a family affair that he was not at liberty to reveal.

I replied that it was true I had received by express a package that was unexpected, and I pretended to be deceived by the "family affair," writing that I was not in the habit of poking into other persons' business and could readily understand why it should be kept from me. I was ready to accept the terms offered. A reply came to this stating that if I were disposed to play fair and not attempt any "she-anigan" I would be paid $5,000 in currency for the jewels, but if I attempted to lead my correspondent into a trap I would fall into one myself.

My plot was rapidly working to a head, and I saw possibilities of expanding it into a novel that would send my name up among the great writers of detective stories. But I resolved to wait till the denouement before beginning, for experience had taught me that the easiest way to write a detective story is to begin at the end instead of the beginning.

After a lengthy correspondence it was arranged between me and the party attempting to recover the jewels that I should meet him in a house which was one of a row of stone fronts. At a certain hour on a certain day I was to ring the bell of an apartment on the third floor of the building. If I were alone it would be known; if I were followed it would be known. Indeed, unless I came by myself there would be no use of my coming at all. Should I throw up the agreement I should be denounced as having stolen the property.

I began to realize that I was getting into the business of practical detective story writing with a vengeance. It was time I should take some precautions against arrest for having stolen property in my possession. My letters to my correspondent alone would incriminate me. I determined to consult the police. Indeed, they were now necessary to me. I must devise some plan with them by which I should be protected and they should make the arrest. But, desiring to keep the matter in my own hands, I told them only that I was tracking a criminal and wished them to be on hand when the trap was sprung. The inspector was not well satisfied to take up a matter under some one else's lead, but when he found that I was obdurate he consented, and I was turned over to a sergeant to make the necessary arrangements.

Upon showing him the building where I was to meet my party he noticed that the roofs of all the houses in the block were of the same height. Thinking that if any one should wish to get away he would mount to the roof and go down through the scuttle of another house, the sergeant concluded to put men on the roofs to watch that means of egress. This would obviate the necessity of keeping on my trail in the street, which would be known to the criminal.

On the day and hour appointed I repaired with the jewels to the building, rang the bell of the third flat in the vestibule, the latch was drawn, and I went upstairs. A door stood ajar, and I passed through it into a room. A man advanced to meet me. He did not look at all like a jailbird or, indeed, a criminal of any kind.

"Ah," he said cordially. "I see you have brought the box. Permit me to explain verbally that these jewels are a legacy to my daughter. The will by which she inherited them was not properly drawn, and in law, though not in equity, they belong to another. To save them I captured them, though if what I have done were known it would subject me to a criminal prosecution. That is the reason I sent them to you and why I am willing to secure your silence by paying you so large an amount."

Here was a subcomplication for my work. I was very much interested and listened eagerly to the man's story of how he had saved his daughter's inheritance. I declined to accept any reward for the return of the jewels, but he declared that a bargain was a bargain and we must both stand by the one we had made. Since the police were behind me I thought it perfectly safe to accept temporarily anything he might offer.

He counted out fifty $100 bills, which I rolled in a wad and put in my pocket. It had been agreed between me and my supporters that when on my return I reached the street door several policemen who had come after I had made my entrance should go upstairs, while those on the roof were stopping egress in that direction. I therefore said goodby to the man who had saved his daughter's fortune, resolving that I would attempt to persuade the policemen below to let the case drop. But they refused to be persuaded and went up. They rang the doorbell of the third floor flat, but, not receiving a response, were obliged to force an entrance. This took some time, as every door and window was barred. When it was effected the flat was found to be empty. A door had been cut into the adjoining building, through which any one might have passed out and away. At any rate, the man who had saved his daughter's fortune I never saw again. Nor did the police.

I went to the station and turned the bills I had received over to the sergeant. He sent them to a bank for inspection, and they were pronounced counterfeit.

I asked the inspector for a theory as to the meaning of the whole business. After some thought he said: "There was a robbery of jewels recently of which we were notified and were hot on the robber's tracks. That the gems might not be found on him he sent them away by express. How he came to select you for the recipient I don't know. When he wanted the jewels he opened correspondence with you, though it is also possible that some one seeing your ad. did so. The result you know. Whoever he is, he has the jewels and you have $5,000 in worthless money. Next time you meet with such a case you'd better report it to us at once."

I had written detective stories based on the stupidity of the police and the ingenuity of my hero. I now felt that the former were revenged.

I went to my scribbling den and instead of writing a long detective story wrote a short one. The above tale is all I got out of my practical experience.

Famous Detective to Become Head of U. S. Secret Service.

WILKIE RETIRES

New Head of U. S. Secret Service Will Be William J. Flynn.

New York, Nov. 16.—William J. Flynn, chief of the secret service for the district about New York and now head of the investigators for the Curran aldermanic committee, will resign from his place on the staff of the committee on Monday next, and on Wednesday, Nov. 20, will succeed Chief Wilkie at the head of the secret service of the United States, with headquarters at Washington.

JEWISH CITIZENS ARE THOROUGHLY AROUSED

Will Tolerate No Compromise On Passport Question.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Beyond all doubt developments in the Russian treaty situation make it clear that an agreement has not yet been reached by the two governments for a modus vivendi which would avert a tariff war.

But even more significant was the warning sounded by Jewish leaders that any administration which attempted to dodge the passport issue for the sake of trade relations with Russia would bring upon itself a tremendous attack backed by the combined strength of all the Jews and Jewish interests in this country. Reports published to the effect that such a plan was about to be consummated started a movement of protest from Jewish citizens which threatens to prove more formidable than the original fight which resulted in the denunciation of the treaty of 1832 by President Taft last winter.

What may be expected was clearly indicated in a statement by Simon Wolf, an attorney of Washington, who is a close friend of President Taft and is regarded by both official and unofficial Washington as the untitled representative of the Jewish interests of Washington. Mr. Wolf said:

"We shall do all in our power to prevent any arrangements being made with Russia whereby the passport question will be ignored. This country fought a great war lasting four years for the sake of a principle. It is now going to sacrifice that principle for the sake of a relatively insignificant amount of money."

Mr. Wolf already has taken steps looking to the concentration of the attention of the Jewish organizations in this country upon the new phase of the situation.

HE WILL APPEAL

Eloping Preacher Not Satisfied With His Punishment.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16.—The Rev. William F. Dunn of Granite City, Ill., who eloped to this city several weeks ago with his organist, Miss Estelle Masser, was arraigned before Police Judge Philip C. Gould on the charge of immoral conduct and was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to the county jail for three months.

He will take an appeal. The girl was fined $1 and costs, but sentence was suspended. The preacher did not offer any testimony. The girl was a witness, however, and admitted she met Mr. Dunn in St. Louis, and that they had come here together.

Anarchist's Brain Below Normal. Madrid, Nov. 16.—An autopsy performed here revealed numerous signs of physiological and intellectual degeneration in the case of the assassin of Premier Canalejas, Manuel Pardiñas. The weight of the brain was considerably below normal. Pardiñas died of a self-inflicted wound.

CLARK MAKES A "CLEAN BREAST"

Dynamiter Who Pledged Guilty Goes On Stand.

TELLS ALL HE KNOWS OF IT

In Planting a Charge of Dynamite on a "Job" at Dayton, Cincinnati Iron Worker Placed Umbrella Over the Explosive to Protect It From the Rain, Forgetting That His Initials Were Carved on the Handle.

Indianapolis, Nov. 16.—As there are not fewer than 100 corroborating witnesses present, in order that these witnesses, who are here to corroborate Ortie McManigal's story of purchases of dynamite and other details, might testify and return home, it may be ten days before McManigal resumes his testimony.

Edward Clark of Cincinnati, who pleaded guilty soon after the cases were called for trial, was placed on the stand and redeemed his promise to make a clean breast of the matter so far as he was concerned in the conspiracy. He told of arranging with Hockin for the purchase of dynamite, of going to Dayton with the explosive and of setting it under the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad bridge, and because it was raining very hard at the time, he placed an umbrella over the explosive. He said he had forgotten for the moment that his initials were cut on the handle of the umbrella. He identified several letters he had written to President Ryan and Secretary McNamara and copies of the letters he had received.

The story of Ortie McManigal, as far as it has been told on the witness stand, was corroborated by many witnesses. George H. Phillips of Oakland, Cal., assistant superintendent of the Giant Powder company, testified that on Sept. 23, 1910, he sold 500 pounds, or ten cases of 80 per cent nitro-gelatin, an explosive much more powerful than dynamite. He described the three men with a launch who obtained the explosive, one being a man with something wrong with his eye (M. A. Schmidt), the other being a description which corresponds with that of Dave Caplin, and the third being a "man who looked like a consumptive," said Phillips. This third man, whose name was given to him as J. B. Bryson, said Phillips, he later saw in the Los Angeles jail, and found to be J. B. McNamara.

Nine cases of the nitro-gelatin he sold to these men on Sept. 23 were returned to him in October, 1910, by the San Francisco police, said the powder company official. Other witnesses will tell of the finding of this explosive stored in an old house in San Francisco.

WILL CARRY IT UP

Indiana Dog Law on Its Way to Supreme Court.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 16.—Because John Murphy, township trustee, refused to allow a claim for $300, filed by Charles S. Ferguson, for the death of his horse as the result of being bitten by a rabid dog, suit will be filed in the circuit court and the supreme court will probably have to decide a point of law. Ferguson filed his claim under the law which provides that the township trustee shall reimburse farmers and others whose cattle have been killed by dogs. The trustee says the horse died of a disease and admits a dog was the cause of the disease, but he says the law does not apply to a case of this kind.

A Matrimonial Mix-Up.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 16.—Terre Haute not only has a record for the ratio of divorces to population and to marriages as well as to the total number of lawsuits filed, but can produce novel ones as well. James Ivy got a divorce from his wife, Phildelia May Ivy. Ten days later Adda Ivy obtained a divorce from William Ivy, brother of James. Later James paid the costs in both cases and also paid for a marriage license and was married to the woman who had obtained a divorce from his brother.

Plucky Girl Repulsed Intruder.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Nov. 16.—Robert E. Willis, who was arrested on the charge of unlawfully entering the home of Charles W. Baker, got a suspended fine of $25 and costs, and was ordered to leave the city. Mr. Baker's young daughter drove the man from the house with a revolver.

Mayor of Bicknell Resigns.

Bicknell, Ind., Nov. 16.—The charges of withholding money filed against George B. Fleming, mayor of Bicknell, were dismissed. Fleming obeyed the request of the council and resigned. He made a cash settlement.

Victim of Gasoline Explosion.

Bedford, Ind., Nov. 16.—Mrs. James Bell, who was burned by the explosion of a can supposed to contain kerosene only, but which had been used to keep gasoline in, is dead.

Right Hand Crushed Off.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16.—Isaac Royer, a farmer living near Chrisney, Spencer county, suffered the loss of his right hand in a corn crusher.

BOTH SIDES PLEASED AT SPECIAL SESSION

Ground for Pleasure, However, Widely Different.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The hearty commendation of all Democratic leaders in Washington greeted Woodrow Wilson's announcement that he will call a special session of congress to revise the tariff. William J. Bryan and Champ Clark both indorsed the move with unqualified praise, but Bryan is in favor of including other legislation in the special session.

The general opinion is that it would have been suicidal politically for Wilson to have postponed action on the pledges made by the party.

The Republicans, on the other hand, seemed well pleased that the Democratic administration is going to tackle the tariff at an early date. They are confident that the revision will spell dissension in the Democratic ranks and disaster for the party.

When W. J. Bryan was informed of Governor Wilson's announcement, he said: "I think that both Governor Wilson's conclusions and his reasons are sound, and I have expected the special session. I hold that the tariff question is the principal one before the people for discussion by congress, and it will doubtless prove so."

Colonel Bryan declined to state what he regards as other important questions which should be brought up promptly for legislative action, saying that there are several of them, as laid down in the Baltimore platform. "I am strongly in favor," he added, "of carrying out the promises made to the American people in the Baltimore platform."

Champ Clark said: "We made certain definite promises in order to win at the last election, and we ought to carry them out religiously. I have no doubt we will keep faith with the people. I favor a special session at as early a date as possible after the inauguration to revise the tariff and do such other things as appear meet and proper. The country has a right to know what we intend to do."

"Calamity howlers will not be able to precipitate a panic this time," said he.

TURKS GIVE UP TO INEVITABLE

Resigned to Inexorable Decrees of Fate.

APATHETIC OVER DISASTER

Possessed of the Idea That It Is Not Written in the Book of Fate That the State Shall Be Saved, the Ottoman Government Seems Incapable of Further Efforts to Save Its Possessions in Europe.

Essen, Germany, Nov. 16.—The Russian workmen in the Rhine provinces have started for Russia in response to telegrams ordering them to rejoin the reserves.

London, Nov. 16.—Bulgaria has abandoned her intention of occupying Constantinople, one correspondent at Constantinople states, as a consequence of the vigorous action taken by Russia and Great Britain at Sofia. Another correspondent, on the other hand, quotes the Turkish foreign office as stating that if the territorial conditions offered prove acceptable there will be no difficulty in arranging some form of entry by the belligerent troops. As far as the Turkish government is concerned, this probably means, adds the correspondent, that the question of an entry has already been settled.

The correspondent of another paper says that the Turkish ministers held a long and anxious meeting at which the reports from the commanders at the front were considered. These reports state bluntly that the Turkish position is absolutely hopeless. That-aldja cannot hold out for many days, at the best. The correspondent says that cholera has played immense havoc within the Turkish ranks. The sanitary conditions are deplorable. Yesterday's mortality amounted to 2,000.

The correspondent goes on to say: "The Turkish commanders are in despair, as it is impossible to stay the increase of the terrible visitation of disease, which has appeared in the most virulent form. The deaths already amount to five figures. Those attacked by cholera are simply left to die without the slightest attention."

"The Will of Allah."

"An atmosphere of resignation to the inexorable decrees of fate has settled over the imperial, civil and military authorities. All seem incapable of further efforts to save the state and have become prepossessed with the idea that it is not written in the book of fate that the state will be saved. European Turkey is regarded as lost beyond recall, and the little emotion of which Turkish character is capable is devoted to shedding a few mild tears over the possibility of losing even a portion of Constantinople."

"The Turks are apathetic over the disaster which brought about the fall of the empire, and they seem incapable of making one final effort to save something from the wreck. We hear no more of dying in the last ditch at Tchataldja. The Turks know perfectly well that against the Bulgarian artillery they are helpless and that the rabble which passes under the name of an army will be driven back into Constantinople whenever the Bulgarians care to press home their attack. Constantinople is largely ignorant of the awful conditions at the front and remains extraordinarily calm. Business continues as usual and the music halls and other places of amusement are filled nightly with gay crowds, as though there was nothing so remote as war. A no more unlike city with an enemy hammering at its gates can be imagined."

"It is estimated that 50,000 refugees already have been shipped to Asia Minor. The overcrowding on the ships is terrible. The sanitary arrangements in the Ottoman capital are hopelessly inadequate. A serious outbreak of disease is inevitable. The plight of the refugees, left to shift for themselves as regards food and clothing, is deplorable and, packed like cattle on the ships, they present a most pitiful spectacle, especially the very young and the very old."

"The weather here is very warm, and all conditions are present for an outbreak and a spread of disease. I visited several mosques today, including St. Sophia. There, save for the corners reserved for religious ceremonies, the whole building was taken up with soldiers and refugees, sleeping, eating, cooking and doing all sorts of work."

Had Been Reading Dime Novel.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16.—A fifteen-year-old boy, who is under arrest here, told the police he placed a large chain across the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad track near the city several weeks ago and then ran up the track and flagged the fast Dixie Flyer in order to play hero. When the train was stopped he was hailed as a hero. The boy had been reading dime novels.

BASEBALL MEN TO MEET AT RICHMOND

Sunday November, 24 Time Set For Re-Organization of Indiana State League.

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

The first meeting in connection with the re-organization of the Indiana State baseball league will be held Sunday, Nov. 24, at the Westcott hotel in Richmond, says the Newcastle Courier. Dal Williams, manager of the Maxwell club, is perfecting the arrangements for the meeting and the re-organization and is meeting with much success. The outlook for a better and faster league than ever is promising and there is every indication that baseball will be unusually prosperous in eastern Indiana during the season of 1913.

At the meeting in Richmond the cities of Rushville, Connersville, Cambridge City, Newcastle, Indianapolis T. T.'s and Richmond will be represented.

Manager Williams went to Muncie today to complete arrangements for the placing of that city in the circuit.

somewhat ponderous book in tooled leather and with extra pages inserted between the Old Testament and the New for recording marriages, birth and deaths. On the page apportioned to deaths there is but one entry. It states that Sanford Stone, infant son of Solomon and Mary Stone, died May 26, 1852.

"That is the only death that has ever occurred in our family," said Mrs. Stone, as she smoothed the page with her wrinkled hand and spelled out the name and date with her tired eyes. "He was just a little fellow, the third one that came to us, and he went away so long ago—so long ago—and yet it seems but yesterday." Her lips were trembling, her eyes misty and her voice was full of yearning. She was still grieving for the baby who had died in that springtime sixty years ago.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stone are confident they will be spared to eat at least one more Thanksgiving dinner together. Their minds are unclouded and their memories are remarkably accurate. Mary's is slightly better than Solomon's. Whenever Solomon makes an error as to the exact date on which anything happened along about cider making time in 1844, Mary gets after him immediately and sets him right. She says Solomon was always a strictly truthful man, but occasionally a bit careless about dates.

LOCALS HOPE TO KEEP SCORE DOWN

Little Chance to Win From Fast Brownsburg Team But Will Put Up Fight.

BATTLE THIS AFTERNOON

Dope on the football game this afternoon between the local high school team and Brownsburg high school, pointed to a Brownsburg victory but Rushville hoped to hold the visitors to a low score. Coach George Reitel and his bunch of huskies from Brownsburg arrived here shortly afternoon and were eager for the battle.

As far as weight was concerned the two teams appeared to be about evenly matched but Brownsburg was conceded the advantage on account of superior coaching. According to the coach Brownsburg will average in weight 142 pounds. The two teams lined up as follows:

Rushville—Frazier, R. E.; Green, R. F. McMahan, R. G.; Hudrick, C.; Mauzy, L. G.; Pea, L. T.; Griffin, Q.; Brann, B. B.; Watson L. H.; McDonald, R. H.

FORBES SAYS HE WILL APPEAL CASE

His Objections To Way Ripley Township Highway Was Built Overruled by Commissioners.

BOARD TAKES LOOK AT ROAD

When the county commissioners today announced they would accept the James Forbes highway in Ripley township over the objections of James Forbes, the latter declared he would appeal the case to the circuit court. The board reached this decision after the members viewed the road this morning.

Forbes filed objections before the board several days ago, alleging Wilk & Co., the builders, did not live up to the plans and specifications in many ways. The hearing lasted Thursday and Friday, and the commissioners, not being satisfied the contractors had not built the road according to plans, went out to see for themselves this morning.

REGARDS GROSS AS RESPONSIBLE

Conductor on Ill-Fated Freight Prefaces Testimony Before Coroner
With an Opinion.

SWITCH REPORTED CLOSED

Possible Some Blame May Rest on
Freight Engineer Who is Related Here.

"This is a plain as daylight case and there isn't any reason for any mystery. I want to tell the truth and tell it carefully. There's only one thing to tell, and that's just what happened, and I'm not here to blame any one, but just to tell why that switch was not closed."

Speaking earnestly, Patrick J. Hines, freight conductor on C. H. & D. train No. 95, thus far prefaced his testimony before Coroner Durham of Marion county yesterday afternoon, when he made it clear to the coroner that he regarded Carl Gross, head brakeman of his own crew, responsible for the open switch through which train No. 36 plunged to a head-on collision with the freight early Wednesday morning.

It is barely possible that some responsibility for the wreck at Irvington may rest on the shoulders of Willis York, brother of Mrs. U. G. Beaver of this city and engineer on the freight with which the passenger collided.

P. J. Hines, conductor on the freight, gave his version of the wreck in a statement to Coroner Durham of Marion county late yesterday. He said he had sent a brakeman ahead to close the switch, and that the brakeman reported to him that Carl Gross, head brakeman, and Willis York, had told him that the switch had been closed.

Hines said that about half an hour before the wreck, his freight train had entered the siding in two parts. He received orders, he said, from the telegrapher in the tower not far away, to proceed to Julietta and pass the passenger train No. 36 there.

"I ordered the train out on the main track after I received the telegraphic orders, and had started the train to Julietta, when the engineer and I decided that we could not make Julietta in time. The engine had already gone dead a short time before at a hill, and we were afraid to risk going to Julietta.

"I ordered the train back into the switch in one piece, and we backed in at the east end. When the train arrived in the clear I told D. F. Fox, the rear brakeman, to go and see if the switch lined up with the main track. I told him I had to go to the telegraph station. I went to the telegraph station and then returned to the caboose.

Cox went forward, according to the testimony, and asked Gross and Willis York, the engineer of the freight train, whether the switch been closed. He reported to Hines, according to the testimony, that "we are in the clear and the switch is lined up for the main track."

That correspondence between the state railroad commission and officials of the C. H. & D. railroad relative to the failure of the company to push work on the installation of a block signal system on the eastern half of its Indiana line will be made public within the next few days, became known yesterday.

The correspondence will show, it is said, that the company's officials were warned several times that the commission was noting the lack of progress in the installation of the block signal system, which was ordered completed by January 1, 1913.

WOULD CONDEMN LAND IN GLENWOOD

C. I. & W. Railway Co., Brings Proceedings in Circuit Court
Against Murphys

TO MAKE BETTER FACILITIES

The Cincinnati, Indianapolis & Western Railway Company brought suit in the circuit court today against Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Murphy of Glenwood to condemn a small triangular piece of ground for a part of the C. H. & D. station and terminal at Glenwood.

The plaintiff alleges it owns a right-of-way from Indianapolis to Hamilton, O., as well as other appurtenances necessary for the operation of a railroad. The railroad says it has made an effort to purchase the land.

Smith, Cambren & Smith are attorneys for the railroad. They say the land in question is a rectangular piece between the C. H. & D. and the I. & C. right-of-way which would make better facilities for unloading and loading freight cars.

TO BE THEIR 68TH THANKSGIVING

Solomon and Mary Stone, Born and Reared Near Andersonville, Will
Enjoy Dinner as Usual.

ATE FIRST ONE IN OLD RUSH

It Consisted of Wild Turkey Which
Solomon Slew—Married
In Tyler's Term.

If both live until the last Thursday in November, Solomon and Mary Stone of Howard county, who were born and reared together and married in the vicinity of Andersonville in 1844, will set down together to partake of the sixty-eighth Thanksgiving dinner which they have prepared and eaten together. They are remembered by many people in the southeastern part of the county.

Solomon and Mary Stone were married when John Tyler was President of the United States. It was on October 17, 1844. They had their first Thanksgiving dinner together on the last Thursday of the following November. The turkey they had that day was a wild one, which Solomon shot in the woods near their home in the little village of Andersonville. The turkey which they will have this time is one which Mrs. Stone raised in her own poultry yard.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone are native Hoosiers. Both were born near the Rush-Franklin county line. Their parents came over the mountain from Virginia together and settled in the same neighborhood. Solomon and Mary were playmates, went to the same country school and with their parents attended the same church. They can not remember when the attachment which resulted in their marriage began, but they proudly say that neither ever knew any sweetheart but the other. Mary says that as near as she can remember they began "keeping company" in the fall of 1842. They started going together when Solomon "saw her home" the first time from a husking bee.

Mr. Stone was born March 11, 1823, and Mrs. Stone, November 13, 1827, which makes their ages respectively 89 and 85. "We were a country boy and a country girl when we were married," said Mrs. Stone. "and we are a country boy and a country girl today. We would not know what to do with ourselves in a city."

"That's right," broke in Solomon. "We have lived on a farm every day of our lives and we are going to stick to it to the end. We have never been rich, but we have got along. We own this farm, as good a hundred acres as there is in Howard county, and we do not owe a penny to any man in the world."

"We keep pretty well for old folks," said Solomon, "and we never think of being unhappy. Just once in a while we get a little lonely. You see there are none of our neighbors left. There is not a man or woman living in the neighborhood who was here when we came. The last of them, Robert etty, who owned the next farm east, was buried only a few weeks ago. Mary and I are all that's left, and that's the saddest thing we have to think about."

Mr. and Mrs. Stone are the parents of five children, all sons, of whom four are living, all within an hour's ride of the old homestead. Their eldest son, the Rev. John H. Stone, of Kokomo, was a soldier in the war of the rebellion, running away in 1862, when only a boy, to enlist.

DEVOTION OF 40 HOURS TO BEGIN

Special Services at St. Mary's Catholic Church Will Start Sunday
Morning.

LASTS 'TILL TUESDAY NIGHT

Intended to Set Forth Prominently
Catholic Doctrine of Real
Presence.

Beginning with High Mass at ten o'clock on Sunday morning and closing with solemn procession on Tuesday evening, St. Mary's congregation will observe what is called the Forty Hours' Devotion.

This devotion so named in memory of the forty hours during which the body of our Lord remained in the Sepulcher, is intended to set forth prominently the Catholic doctrine of the Real Presence. The members of the church are all expected to receive Holy Communion during this time and the Blessed Sacrament is exposed for the adoration of the faithful who visit the church at all hours of the day, "to watch a while and pray."

Besides the morning Masses, there will be services each of the three evenings at 7:30 o'clock.

Strangers will be welcome at all these services. The exercises will be conducted by the Rev. James Devery of Winchester, Tenn., a member of the Paulist Fathers. This is the well-known society of priests, of whom many are converts to the church and one of whose aims is the preaching of Catholic truths to non-Catholics. Their work has been signally successful.

comes General Office Manager of Sterling Motor Co.

WILL LOCATE IN FLINT, MICH.

Graham Ong, a former Columbus boy, well known here and grandson of the late David Graham, has resigned his position as paymaster and manager of time and cost, with the Flanders Motor Company, at Detroit, to go with the Sterling Motor Company, as general office manager. The Sterling Motor Company is temporarily located at Detroit, but will move to Flint, Mich., about the first of the year to its large modern factory, now under construction, adds the Columbus Republican.

The Sterling Company is one of the large factories combined under the Republic Motor Company, a $63,000,000 corporation, recently incorporated in New Jersey, and will build motors exclusively for the various automobile companies in the Republic corporation.

Mr. Ong has been with the Flanders Motor Company since its conception as the Metzger Motor Car Company, in 1909, and through its various changes in management he has always retained the confidence of the directors.

Mr. Miller promises that the Rushville crowd will be met at the station with a brass band and a large crowd of Hamilton people. The probable trip of the Rushville delegation has been mentioned at Hamilton. Mr. Miller writes, and has been received with enthusiasm there.

2 NEW CANDIDATES BEING MENTIONED

S. H. Trabue, Sr., Father of County
Chairman, Said to Have Inside Track.

FOR THAT POST OFFICE JOB

Two candidates for the postoffice appointment who have not been prominently mentioned in connection with the job the now said to be on the trail which may lead to success. They are Samuel H. Trabue, Sr., father of Samuel L. Trabue, the Democratic county chairman, and Will Wallace, former editor of the local Democratic newspaper and for many years a staunch party worker.

It is stated that not only Mr. Trabue but James Casady, vice chairman of the county central committee, who has been mentioned before, both believe that they are on the inside track and will get the appointment. There are said to be any number of Democrats who would most willingly take the job if they knew how to persuade Finly H. Gray to recommend them.

FIRE CAUSES LOSS OF ABOUT $350,000

Manufacturing Building at Van
Camp's Packing Plant in Indianapolis is Burned Down.

LOCAL MAN, STOCKHOLDER

Fire in VanCamp's packing plant in Indianapolis early this morning entailed a loss estimated to be between $300,000 and $350,000. Efficient work by the firemen saved the plant from complete destruction and confined the blaze to the manufacturing building.

W. M. Pearce of this city was stockholder in this concern. The loss will not be more than twenty per cent of the total property destroyed as the insurance will cover eighty per cent of the loss.

The fire was discovered in the catsup room and turned in by the night watchman. Shortly after a stream of water had been thrown on the flames, a water main broke and hindered the firemen in checking the fire. Falling walls endangered the lives of the firemen.

STOCKHOLDERS TO HAVE TO PAY

Passes For County Fair Are Abolished at Annual Meeting This Afternoon.

VOTE BY BALLOT IS 27 TO 17

Suggestion to Dispense With Floral
Hall is Stubbornly Opposed—
Officers Are Elected.

Forty-four stockholders of the Rush county Fair Association, at the annual meeting of the association in the court house this afternoon, voted 27 to 17, to abolish passes for stockholders. Hereafter stockholders will have to pay admission as do any other patrons.

The officers, in issuing the call for the meeting, emphasized the necessity of devising plans to perpetuate the county fair. This is to be one of the methods in the attempt to put it on a paying basis. All that stockholders have ever made on their investment is admission to the fair.

John C. Blackledge threw a scare into the meeting when he suggested that the floral hall be dispensed with and that the premium money be used in offering substantial prizes for township exhibits. Mr. Blackledge asked that men who wanted to be elected directors think over that suggestion.

"With all due respect to the fancy work display," said Mr. Blackledge, "it looks like the floral hall might be dispensed with. I believe the system is wrong. We give premiums to a lot of stuff that is dragged around from one fair to another. Have you been to the Connersville fair? I am ashamed for a Fayette county farmer to come over here and see our agricultural exhibit."

This aroused opposition at once. "While I am in favor of boosting the agricultural show," said John Megee, "I am a suffragette. It would be a mistake to abolish the women's department. When the women are not here I am going to defend them."

Omer Stevens said the plan of township premiums had been tried and failed. He said the scheme was used three years in succession.

"Yes, but what did you offer?" asked John Blackledge. "Give them real premiums."

"Furnish us with the money and we'll offer the premiums," said Will Brown, president.

"Take some money out of the speed department and put it in premiums," volunteered Samuel H. Trabue.

The motion of John D. Megee that a legislative committee be appointed to look after the interests of the association in the next legislature met with a lot of nonsensical opposition.

J. Q. Thomas said it would be unconstitutional for the county to give any financial aid to the county fair. He said it would be illegal for the people to be taxed on an institution that was owned by private interests. This started a discussion when the original motion was for the appointment of a legislative committee. The motion was finally carried and the committee will be appointed by the president later.

Will L. Brown was re-elected president. Will A. Alexander was elected vice-president, J. V. Young was chosen to succeed himself as treasurer.

Ed Adkins was unanimously named director from Ripley township, and William Knecht was chosen from Washington township. Samuel Cobee, John L. Clark and Samuel Kirkpatrick were nominated for director from Center and a ballot had to be taken. Directors were to be elected from Orange, Anderson and Richmond in addition. The secretary is named by the directors.

TARIFF REVISION NOW IS ASSURED
The President-Elect Will Call a Special Session.
NOT LATER THAN APRIL 15 NEXT

Holding That the Interests of Business Require That All Uncertainty as to What Particular Items of the Tariff Are to Be Revised Shall Be Removed as Soon as Possible, Governor Wilson Makes Statement.

New York, Nov. 16.—Not later than April 15 of next year, President-Elect Wilson has just announced, he will call congress together in extraordinary session to revise the tariff. In his statement made public on the eve of his departure for a four-weeks' vacation in Bermuda, he says that he has determined upon this course not only because he was elected on a platform which declared for an immediate downward revision of the tariff schedules, but also because he feels it is due to the business interests of the country that they should be relieved of all uncertainty as to what the general purpose of the incoming administration at Washington is.

Governor Wilson's formal statement follows: "I shall call congress together in extraordinary session not later than April 15. I shall do this not only because I think that the pledges of the party ought to be redeemed as promptly as possible, but also because I know it to be in the interest of business that all uncertainty as to what the particular items of tariff revision are to be, should be removed as soon as possible."

While the platform adopted at Baltimore declared that the Democratic party believed that any other tariff than one designed for revenue purposes is unconstitutional, cognizance was taken of the fact that a policy of protection has so ingrained itself into the commercial interests of this country that it would be unwise to attempt anything more than a gradual elimination of the duties considered obnoxious. The demand that this gradual reduction be instituted immediately was nevertheless unequivocal.

Beyond his bald statement that he will call an extraordinary session the president-elect has made no comment on the situation other than that so far as he was concerned the pledges of his party and its platform would be carried out.

Governor Wilson sailed at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Bermuda on the steamer Bermudian, and will rest there until Dec. 16. One of his first acts on arriving in Bermuda will be to call upon the governor of Bermuda and to request him that he be permitted to spend his time there without recognition of his official status either as governor of New Jersey or as president-elect of the United States.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and their two younger daughters, the Misses Jessie and Eleanor Wilson.

A BIG JOB
It Becomes Necessary For Uncle Sam to Count His Money.

Washington, Nov. 16.—"Speak softly" will be the admonition to all visitors to the treasury department for the next few weeks. Uncle Sam will be counting his money. This count is made necessary officially by the change in the offices of United States treasurer, Lee McClung being succeeded by Carmi Thompson of Ohio.

When the formal transfer is made the new treasurer will give a receipt to the outgoing treasurer for more than one billion dollars in gold and silver and paper money.

All of the paper money is counted piece by piece. Much of the gold is counted that way, but practically all the silver and some of the gold is counted by weighing the sealed bags which contain it on scales that are delicately poised so that the slightest variation from the ascertained weight of a bag of coin would be accurately recorded.

It Was Not Murder.
Boston, Nov. 16.—Marjorie G. Powers, whose body was found in a bathtub at a local hotel, was not murdered nor did she commit suicide. Her death, according to a statement issued by Medical Examiner Magrath, who performed an autopsy, was due to natural causes—enlargement or dilatation of the heart.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS EXPECTED.

Tariff Revision Likely to Be Taken Up Soon After March 4.

Almost the first duty that President Wilson will perform will be to issue a call for an extraordinary session of congress to revise the tariff, according to the prevailing opinion in Washington. Three tariff bills, passed by congress and vetoed by President Taft, need only to be passed again to get the signature of the Democratic president. It is also held that the Democratic platform pledges Governor Wilson to issue the call.

What the Democratic platform does declare for is the "immediate downward revision" of the tariff, and this expression since the campaign of 1908 has been held to mean revision at an extra session. Governor Wilson himself made no direct statement on the subject, though when President Taft warned the country that the Democratic candidate was pledged to a revision of the tariff at an extra session Mr. Wilson smiled in a way that seemed to indicate his willingness to accept the indictment.

The Democratic leaders in congress confidently expect an extra session, and they look forward to it eagerly as an opportunity for at last passing bills which for the past two years have lacked only the president's signature to become law. Undoubtedly with a Democratic senate those bills will be modified and the La Follette amendments will probably be discarded. But it can be confidently stated that the bills that Mr. Wilson will be asked to sign will not be far different in principle from the measures which Mr. Taft vetoed.

In the bills which passed one house, but not the other, changes of a more sweeping character will be made at the next congress. Some of these measures were hurriedly drafted, and obviously for political effect.

The opinion is that the extra session will be called shortly after inauguration day and that it will last well into the summer. The measures already passed can be adapted to present conditions by Chairman Oscar W. Underwood in short order, and they will pass with only perfunctory debate. But after them will come other measures on which the ways and means committee will begin work as soon as congress reconvenes in December.

TWO FOR SENATE CHANGE.
Thirty-four Other States Must Approve Direct Election of Senators.

Only two states, Massachusetts and Minnesota, have so far acted upon the constitutional amendment submitted to them by congress proposing the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people instead of by the state legislatures.

The failure of more states to act is due to the fact that very few legislatures have had sessions since the joint resolution proposing this amendment was passed last May by congress and certified by Secretary of State Knox to the governors of the states. The day after this proclamation was received in Massachusetts the lower branch of its legislature ratified the amendment.

and it was at once unanimously adopted by the senate.
Thirty-nine state legislatures will meet in January, and this will afford them a chance to act. Most of them are expected to ratify the amendment. Thirty-six states must assent to the change to make it a valid part of the constitution, so that if six of the states whose legislatures meet next year fail or refuse to ratify it its adoption would be thrown over until 1914.

Height of Diplomacy.
It was at the British embassy, at Washington. A distinguished Englishman was delivering a lecture, and to his audience were many big diplomats and high society people. Just as the lecturer spread on the ambient atmosphere his most gorgeous verbal picture a large German tried to sit down quietly in a chair. He did sit down, achieving a transfer from the chair to the floor with a great clatter, which peevish the lecturer and annoyed the guests. Everybody in the room turned around and glared in the direction from which the noise had come. But that German was too smart for them. Having buried himself against the floor he stayed there, breathing a fine mixture of wax and meal, which had been rubbed in preparatory to the dancing that was to come later.

After the lecture was over Mr. Bryce, the British ambassador, found and shook hands with the astute German, remarking:
"Your fall and subsequent recumbent position were the most exquisite piece of diplomacy I ever saw in Washington."—Popular Magazine.

Discovered Through Chance.
By mere chance Professor Roentgen suspended a Crookes tube, through which an electric glow was playing, over a table that had a package of photographic plates in a drawer underneath. On the table happened to lie a bunch of keys. When the plates were taken out to be used they were found to be impressed with shadowy images of the keys. So the wonderful X rays were discovered. In this case, too, a frog chance to play an interesting part. One was put with other objects on the table in order to get a shadow photograph on a plate in the drawer, and when the photograph was developed the skeleton of the frog was revealed in the picture. Thus it was learned that X ray photography could be employed to picture the internal parts of living animals.—New York Journal.

Call Us North Americans.
An Argentine peculiarity, noticeable also in Chile, is that many of the citizens begrudge our monopoly of the title of "Americans." They catalogue us at all possible times under "N" instead of "A." They speak of us as North Americans or as "Yankis" and call our minister the "North American minister," quite ignoring Mexico and Canada. Certain Americans desirous of securing an increase of our trade with South America and of placing in every possible manner the South Americans overlooking the practical side of the question, have acquiesced in the local prejudice and speak of themselves as North Americans, even though they do not address their letters to the "United States of North America."—Detroit Free Press.

MEYER'S NAVAL RESERVE BILL

Put into Form, It Adds 21,000 Men to the Navy.

SOON READY FOR CONGRESS

Circulars Sent Out to Former Members of Service Asking Them to Join New Organization Bring Flood of Replies. Scheme Generally Indorsed.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer has about completed the collection of a vast amount of data and information regarding the possibilities of a great United States reserve naval force, such as that provided for in a bill which he submitted to congress last winter. Through Assistant Secretary of the Navy Winthrop a circular appeal has been issued to all former officers and enlisted men of the navy and marine corps asking for particulars as to age and occupation. Hundreds of replies have already been received which, in a tabulated form, will be presented to congress with another bill during the coming session.

The bill which Mr. Meyer will send to congress this year provides for the enrollment for five years of former naval men, subject to call to service in the regular navy in time of war. Members of the naval reserve may enter active service for periods not exceeding one year at one time. Line officers shall be enrolled in the ranks from ensign to lieutenant to the extent of 50 per cent of the regular off-cers. Officers above these ranks in good standing, who resigned within ten years, are to have the rank they held when they quit the service.

Twenty-one Thousand Men on the List. There are now about 21,000 former navy men, a large percentage of whom would respond to a call in case of war. The circular issued by Assistant Secretary Winthrop says: "To the officers and men who have honorably left the navy, the reserve of which they are to constitute a special part, called the reserve branch, offers all that is to be found in the great societies that have followed each war. Where men have served through similar experience of hardships and pleasure of excitement and contests and have then been separated the desire grows strong within them to renew old associations and keep alive together their experiences. "This spirit has given creation to the Society of the Cincinnati, the Aztec society, the Loyal Legion, the Grand Army of the Republic and many others. Men who serve in the navy have experiences unlike those of any other class of citizens because they are so vastly more varied. They extend over all the world. They include every feature of the restless sea, and to nearly every man of the navy there is the memory of some active military campaign, larger or smaller. "It is to keep alive those associations and thus keep active the interest in the navy that the department's plan provides for local organizations and the return at intervals of the members of the reserve to the active fleet."

EDDY ESTATE SETTLED.

Christian Science Church Will Receive About $2,000,000.

Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, had in Massachusetts at the time of her death $82,843.75 in personal property and real estate valued at $155,000, according to the report of Thomas W. Street, Frederick E. Jennings and John

W. Worthington, who were appointed to appraise the estate by the Suffolk county probate court.

All the personal property goes to the Christian Science church, under the decision of the supreme court of New Hampshire, which sustained the will of Mrs. Eddy. The entire amount which the New Hampshire administrator will turn over to the church is about $2,000,000.

The Massachusetts supreme court, which has jurisdiction over the $155,000 of real estate within the commonwealth, has decided that the statute bars the Christian Science church from receiving this property as left by Mrs. Eddy's will, but that the property may be administered as a charitable trust by the trustees appointed by the court.

OFF THE GRASS, FRESHIES!

That's the Latest "Don't" at Precise Cornell.

Another rule has been added to the long list of don'ts which upper class custom prescribes for the freshmen at Cornell. The latest is "Don't walk on the grass," and the upper classmen have appointed committees to station at various parts of the campus to see that the rule is obeyed.

The new rule was adopted in the interest of the "campus beautiful," particularly the picturesque quadrangle which at present is intersected by at least a dozen different well worn paths. Hereafter only the sidewalks and cinder paths laid out by the authorities are to be traversed, and freshmen violating this rule will receive the same summary punishment handed out to those of their number who forget to wear the little gray cap or appearing in the spring without their coats.

A Treasure.

When Lincoln was practicing law a client came to him and wanted to know if something couldn't be done to protect him from his wife. He said she locked him out nights and threw dishes at him and battered him up with a club. She scolded him day and night and consistently and continuously made life miserable for him. "Have you thought of getting a divorce?" inquired Lincoln. "No, no; I don't want a divorce. Why, I wouldn't leave th' old woman for anything." "You wouldn't? After all that abuse? And why not?" "Because, squire, that old woman of mine can make the best flapjacks in Sangamon county."—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

A Dilatory Painter.

One of the characteristics of Sir Thomas Lawrence, the portrait painter, was dilatoriness. "Lord Normanton," says a writer, "must have had the patience of a Job wedded to the politeness of a Grandison, for, although in 1819 Lady Normanton had already been sitting off and on for three years, I find him still in 1824 discussing in the politest manner what the back ground of her ladyship's picture shall be and only venturing in the midst way to remind Sir Thomas that he had also himself been sitting to him ever since the year 1815!" The portrait was delivered in 1827.

Odd Marriage Belief.

An unmarried man or woman of marriageable age is something that is rarely seen in the Fiji Islands. The reason of this is not far to seek. The natives believe that if a person dies while in an unmarried state his or her soul is doomed to wander about through endless ages of eternity in an intermediate region between heaven and hades. At the end of each moon they are allowed to look into heaven but are never permitted to enter.

Fielding and Batting.

"What do you think of Fielding?" asked a young lady of a graduate of one of our universities with whom she had been talking about the early English novelists. "Oh," was the answer, "it's important, of course, but it isn't worth much unless there is good batting."

PRINCE ALEXANDER

Servia's Future Ruler Leading the Campaign Before Monastir.

Uskub, Nov. 16.—News is keenly awaited here from Monastir, where it is believed the battle continues. It is stated that the operations of the Servian army were delayed for the arrival of the crown prince, who now has joined the army from the town of Prolepe, where he was received with an ovation, the populace throwing flowers at him.

PAY OF ENGINEERS IS TO BE STANDARDIZED

Important Victory for Men On Eastern Roads.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—A decision has been reached by the arbitration committee selected to decide between the eastern railroads and their locomotive engineers, and its report will be made public shortly.

The effect of the decision of the arbitrators, according to unofficial advice, will be to "standardize" the pay of the engineers on forty-eight eastern roads, which means a victory in an important point for the employees. It will mean a decided raise in wages for the men employed by practically all of the roads except the New York Central and the Pennsylvania systems, but how many million dollars this means was not revealed.

The meeting in Chicago was of the sub-committee of the arbitration committee which met to dispose of certain details. It is hinted that the report of the arbitrators will not be unanimous, but that Messrs. Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, and Morrissey, president of the Railroad Employees and Investors' society, will file a minority report as a matter of form, each man disagreeing with the findings of the majority, which, however, binds them under the arbitration agreement.

In the long list of grievances filed by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on behalf of the men last February, the principal demand was for a standardization of pay for all roads such as is in force in the west. The representatives of the railroads declined at once to accede to the demands, and for a day or two a general strike was threatened.

The Doctrine of Good Shoes May Be Profitably Preached Only By a Good Shoe Man

Frankly, we'd hate to be in the "near shoe" business! We'd hate to carry lines of shoes that sell only because their price is small. Somehow, we feel that it would be about as creditable to circulate bad money as to sell bad shoes. Perhaps the selling of poor shoes will stop, sometime. It ought to stop.

TELEPHONE NUMBER, 1111.

Saturday, November 16, 1912.

Democrats Apathetic.

Either the Democrats were apathetic this year or else a large number of them voted for the Progressive candidates. Considering the large natural increase in population since Bryan ran in 1900 the following from the Cincinnati Enquirer calls for some explanation:

It seems quite evident from the returns upon the popular vote already received that Mr. Wilson's popular vote will not reach the total of the popular vote given to Mr. Bryan in 1896, or 1900, or in 1908, and yet how different the result in the Electoral College of the states!

It will be a most interesting exhibit of voting results in the election of our Presidents if that should be the case, and in order that the readers of The Enquirer may have the data of the popular votes in the former elections before them for comparison with the result of the one just passed we publish the statistics of the years named above.

In 1896 Bryan received a total vote of 6,502,925. In 1900 his vote was 6,358, 133, while in 1908 it totaled 6,409,104.

In the great state of New York, with every county reported unofficially, Mr. Wilson's vote is given as 647,994, while Mr. Bryan received in that state in 1900, 678,386, and in 1908, 667,468 votes, as stated officially.

The popular vote in Maryland, as published, gives Mr. Wilson a total of 112,122, while Bryan received in 1900, 122,217, and in 1908, 115,908.

The vote in Delaware given to Mr. Wilson this year is unofficially stated at 20,431, while Bryan, in 1908, was credited with 22,071.

The popular vote returns in the other states will be watched for with great interest by the voters of the country, and if they continue to run in the same general trend, the query will come to the minds of many, what states, if any, would have been left for either National Progressives or Republicans, if the gentleman from Nebraska should have been the candidate this year.

Church Advertising.

Under the caption "Church Advertising Spreading," the Continent, the national Presbyterian weekly, calls attention in its current issue to the benefits derived by many churches advertising in the daily press.

Several instances are cited where display advertisements have resulted in the churches being crowded. In part the article states:

"The few venturesome souls who first tried in the daily press to advertise churches, and religion in general, have found not only that their efforts have been well rewarded by increased attendance at the churches in behalf of which the advertising campaigns were conducted, but there has been more and more approval of their conduct by the religious press as well as by the daily press.

"The Continent was one of the first publications to advocate publicity and advertising by churches, and during the last year and a half has printed a number of articles telling of the progress of church advertising and has suggested new plans.

"Ministers in many parts of the country who have tried definite display announcements of regular and special church services have found that they have increased their attendance, and as a natural concomitant the financial support has also increased. This has brought about general enthusiasm for church work and has had a reflex effect upon the pastors, as well as people, which has been decidedly beneficial."

The Turks are going to be kicked down the back stairs, but the governments that have maintained them in their cruel power so many years continue to occupy the best chairs in the parlor.

Some of the Democrats are so sensitive about cause and effect that they won't want anybody to mention that fire will burn, water drown, or a misplaced switch make trouble.

A Democratic senator remarks that there are Democratic protectionists. No doubt of it, and they will shortly realize the folly of voting for a freetrade party.

Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Indiana are the only states in the Union that batted over 200,000,000 bushels in corn production for the season of 1912.

Battleships can hit a small target at a distance of seven miles, but this will not suffice to keep the Balkan allies from reaching salt water somewhere.

Considering the number of letters of advice that Gov. Wilson is receiving, some friend should present him with a farmer's silo as a waste basket.

Owing to a singular defect in the constitution, the new Congress can't begin making political capital for 1916, until after March 4.

What would cold weather be without the usual report of a coal shortage and car famine?

Thus far we have been able to refrain from describing the retreat to Constantinople as the "turkey trot."

wife who says about this time of year that "we don't care much for turkey at our house anyway; just as soon have chicken?"

Gov. and Mrs. Wilson have been invited to visit and inspect the White house, but it is not true that they refuse to rent it unless the landlord will paper the parlor.

Gen. Wood says there will be a war with somebody before long. Probably he has been hearing the college boys cheer the foot ball games.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

PARTY WILL ENDURE.
(Muncie Press.)

The Republican party, in the opinion of The Press, will endure and in due time again come to power by courageous adherence to republican principles and policies, in the firm belief that the logic of events will drive the people back to the Republican standard.

Republicanism to the real Republican is something more than a league for obtaining office. Whether or not it rules is a less important question than whether or not it is right.

Those who have faith in Republican principles, and faith also in the ultimate sound judgement of the people, are not fearful as to the future, and are not now looking around for some basis of compromise with leaders who have sought to wreck the Republican party and profess to believe in principles and policies that are utterly inconsistent with Republicanism. Nor are they seeking the adoption of the party's creed to theories that have caught the fleeting fancy of the hour. Republicans from conviction and not Republicans for office will manifest now the calm confidence of William McKinley, who, standing in the shadow of 1890 and 1892 had faith to proclaim his continuing confidence in the principles of his party and his belief in their ultimate triumph, and saw at last the sunrise of 1894 and 1896.

The concern of Republicans should be centered on reconciling their party creed with the principles of right and justice, and not with the demands of adventurers or opportunities.

BRAINS NOT AFFECTED

Dog and Cat Found Not to Have Rabies.

The brains of a dog and a cat were examined yesterday at the state pathological laboratory, in Indianapolis. Dr. V. A. Shanklin of Terre Haute asked an examination of the brain of a cat which bit two children, and E. C. Cope of Dunreith, Ind., sent in the head of a dog which had bitten his son, Willie Cope, 11 years old. A microscopic examination failed to show that either animal had been afflicted with rabies.

Well Known Woman Who Visits County Fair Each Year Meets With Accident.

AT HER CONNERSVILLE HOME.

Mrs. Caroline Jessop received a fractured skull in a fall at her home on West Hill last evening about four-thirty and it has not been decided yet by the attending physicians whether the wound is serious, says the Connersville Examiner.

Mrs. Jessop tripped on a rug and falling forward struck her head on the door casing. A deep gash about three inches long was inflicted on the right side of the forehead and three stitches were required to close the wound. For a time she was unconscious but soon revived and has been conscious since her recovery from the first shock. Her condition is somewhat improved today.

Mrs. Jessop is seventy-four years of age and is known all over the middle west through her annual visits to the larger county and State fairs. She has followed the confectionery business for years and, assisted by her sons, visits the fairs with her large stand.

LINDSAY TAKES ELEVEN FIRSTS

Raleigh Horseman in the Money Twenty-Two Times Out of Twenty-Six Starts.

HAS 14 GREEN HORSES NOW

Frank Lindsay of Raleigh made an enviable record with his string of fast horses last season. Mr. Lindsay finished the season in October at Hamilton, O., and up to that time had started 26 times, winning 11 firsts, 6 seconds, 3 thirds, 2 fourths, and only four times behind the money. During this time he campaigned J. C. Patchen, pacer, 2:13 1/4; Iris, trotter, 2:24 1/4; Billy H., pacer, 2:13 1/4; Queer Andy, pacer, 2:16 1/4; Maud K., pacer, 2:19 1/4; Anderson Wilkes, Jr., trotter, 2:19 1/4; Alferton, trotter, 2:29 1/4 and Squire Kiger, a green trotter by Allertell.

Frank now has 14 green colts to winter and has fine prospects for the best stable he ever had, next season. He was at Tipton, Ind., last week and secured Fred Cole, trotter record 2:07 1/4, and Jack Hanby, a green trotter by Harry McKenon, to train for next year. A remarkable fact concerning Fred Cole, 2:07 1/4, is that he is the first stud ever brought to Rush county with a trotting record as fast as 2:17 1/4, and he is also the first stud ever in Rush county that sired a trotter as fast as 2:07 1/4, he being the sire of Anna Cole, 2:07 1/4, trotter.

effect on both the eastern and western end of the road, it is said by railroad men, that the Irvington wreck could not have occurred.

It is known that M. H. Hovey, block signal inspector of the commission, reported to the members of the commission that there was no excuse for the delay of the railroad company to push the work of installing block signals on the eastern end of its Indiana property.

Carl Gross, head brakeman on the freight train, which figured in the wreck, could not have been wholly to blame for the wreck, according to men who examined the official rule book of the C. H. & D. railroad.

The railroads are compelled to file a copy of their rules for trainmen with the railroad commission of Indiana.

In the C. H. & D. rule book, Page 34, Rule 104 reads: "Switches must be left in proper position after having been used. Conductors are responsible for the position of the switches used by them and their trainmen, except where switch tenders are stationed."

"A switch must not be left open for a following train unless in charge of a trainman of such train."

Rule 104 declares: "When a train backs in on a siding to meet or to be passed by another train, the engineer, when his train is into clear must see that the switch is properly set for the main track. Enginemen must know that switches are properly set before they pull in or out of siding or other tracks."

How to SELL Things That Are "FOR SALE"

Write your "For Sale" ad SIMPLY stating ever detail about the article that you would want an ad to give if you were anxious to buy something of the kind yourself. Give a little thought to the "selling points" about the article, and put THEM into your ad. Then run the ad MORE THAN ONCE, if that is necessary. It may or may not be.

WILKIE RETIRES

New Head of U. S. Secret Service Will Be William J. Flynn.

New York, Nov. 16.—William J. Flynn, chief of the secret service for the district about New York and now head of the investigators for the Curran aldermanic committee, will resign from his place on the staff of the committee on Monday next, and on Wednesday, Nov. 20, will succeed Chief Wilkie at the head of the secret service of the United States, with headquarters at Washington.

JEWISH CITIZENS ARE THOROUGHLY AROUSED

Will Tolerate No Compromise
On Passport Question.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Beyond all doubt developments in the Russian treaty situation make it clear that an agreement has not yet been reached by the two governments for a modus vivendi which would avert a tariff war.

But even more significant was the warning sounded by Jewish leaders that any administration which attempted to dodge the passport issue for the sake of trade relations with Russia would bring upon itself a tremendous attack backed by the combined strength of all the Jews and Jewish interests in this country. Reports published to the effect that such a plan was about to be consummated started a movement of protest from Jewish citizens which threatens to prove more formidable than the original fight which resulted in the denunciation of the treaty of 1832 by President Taft last winter.

What may be expected was clearly indicated in a statement by Simon Wolf, an attorney of Washington, who is a close friend of President Taft and is regarded by both official and unofficial Washington as the untitled representative of the Jewish interests of Washington. Mr. Wolf said:

"We shall do all in our power to prevent any arrangements being made with Russia whereby the passport question will be ignored. This country fought a great war lasting four years for the sake of a principle. It is now going to sacrifice that principle for the sake of a relatively insignificant amount of money."

Mr. Wolf already has taken steps looking to the concentration of the attention of the Jewish organizations in this country upon the new phase of the situation.

HE WILL APPEAL

Eloping Preacher Not Satisfied With His Punishment.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16.—The Rev. William F. Dunn of Granite City, Ill., who eloped to this city several weeks ago with his organist, Miss Estelle Masser, was arraigned before Police Judge Philip C. Gould on the charge of immoral conduct and was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to the county jail for three months.

He will take an appeal. The girl was fined $1 and costs, but sentence was suspended. The preacher did not offer any testimony. The girl was a witness, however, and admitted she met Mr. Dunn in St. Louis, and that they had come here together.

Anarchist's Brain Below Normal.
Madrid, Nov. 16.—An autopsy performed here revealed numerous signs of physiological and intellectual degeneration in the case of the assassin of Premier Canalejas, Manuel Pardiñas. The weight of the brain was considerably below normal. Pardiñas died of a self-inflicted wound.

CLARK MAKES A "CLEAN BREAST"

Dynamiter Who Pleaded Guilty
Goes On Stand.

TELLS ALL HE KNOWS OF IT

In Planting a Charge of Dynamite on a "Job" at Dayton, Cincinnati Iron Worker Placed Umbrella Over the Explosive to Protect It From the Rain, Forgetting That His Initials Were Carved on the Handle.

Indianapolis, Nov. 16.—As there are not fewer than 100 corroborating witnesses present, in order that these witnesses, who are here to corroborate Ortie McManigal's story of purchases of dynamite and other details, might testify and return home, it may be ten days before McManigal resumes his testimony.

Edward Clark of Cincinnati, who pleaded guilty soon after the cases were called for trial, was placed on the stand and redeemed his promise to make a clean breast of the matter so far as he was concerned in the conspiracy. He told of arranging with Hockin for the purchase of dynamite, of going to Dayton with the explosive and of setting it under the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad bridge, and because it was raining very hard at the time, he placed an umbrella over the explosive. He said he had forgotten for the moment that his initials were cut on the handle of the umbrella. He identified several letters he had written to President Ryan and Secretary McNamara and copies of the letters he had received.

The story of Ortie McManigal, as far as it has been told on the witness stand, was corroborated by many witnesses. George H. Phillips of Oakland, Cal., assistant superintendent of the Giant Powder company, testified that on Sept. 23, 1910, he sold 500 pounds, or ten cases of 50 per cent nitro-gelatin, an explosive much more powerful than dynamite. He described the three men with a launch who obtained the explosive, one being a man with something wrong with his eye (M. A. Schmidt), the other being of a description which corresponds with that of Dave Caplin, and the third being a "man who looked like a consumptive," said Phillips. This third man, whose name was given to him as J. B. Bryson, said Phillips, he later saw in the Los Angeles jail, and found to be J. B. McNamara.

Nine cases of the nitro-gelatin he sold to these men on Sept. 23 were returned to him in October, 1910, by the San Francisco police, said the powder company official.

Other witnesses will tell of the finding of this explosive stored in an old house in San Francisco.

WILL CARRY IT UP

Indiana Dog Law on Its Way to Supreme Court.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 16.—Because John Murphy, township trustee, refused to allow a claim for $200, filed by Charles S. Ferguson, for the death of his horse as the result of being bitten by a rabid dog, suit will be filed in the circuit court and the supreme court will probably have to decide a point of law. Ferguson filed his claim under the law which provides that the township trustee shall reimburse farmers and others whose cattle have been killed by dogs. The trustee says the horse died of a disease and admits a dog was the cause of the disease, but he says the law does not apply to a case of this kind.

A Matrimonial Mix-Up.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 16.—Terre Haute not only has a record for the ratio of divorces to population and to marriages as well as to the total number of lawsuits filed, but can produce novel ones as well. James Ivy got a divorce from his wife, Philidia May Ivy. Ten days later Adda Ivy obtained a divorce from William Ivy, brother of James. Later James paid the costs in both cases and also paid for a marriage license and was married to the woman who had obtained a divorce from his brother.

Plucky Girl Repulsed Intruder.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Nov. 16.—Robert E. Willis, who was arrested on the charge of unlawfully entering the home of Charles W. Baker, got a suspended fine of $25 and costs, and was ordered to leave the city. Mr. Baker's young daughter drove the man from the house with a revolver.

Mayor of Bicknell Resigns.

Bicknell, Ind., Nov. 16.—The charges of withholding money filed against George B. Fleming, mayor of Bicknell, were dismissed. Fleming obeyed the request of the council and resigned. He made a cash settlement.

Victim of Gasoline Explosion.

Bedford, Ind., Nov. 16.—Mrs. James Bell, who was burned by the explosion of a can supposed to contain kerosene only, but which had been used to keep gasoline in, is dead.

Right Hand Crushed Off.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16.—Isaac Royer, a farmer living near Chrissy, Spencer county, suffered the loss of his right hand in a corn crusher.

BOTH SIDES PLEASED AT SPECIAL SESSION

Ground for Pleasure, However, Widely Different.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The hearty commendation of all Democratic leaders in Washington greeted Woodrow Wilson's announcement that he will call a special session of congress to revise the tariff. William J. Bryan and Champ Clark both indorsed the move with unqualified praise, but Bryan is in favor of including other legislation in the special session.

The general opinion is that it would have been suicidal politically for Wilson to have postponed action on the pledges made by the party.

The Republicans, on the other hand, seemed well pleased that the Democratic administration is going to tackle the tariff at an early date. They are confident that the revision will spell dissolution in the Democratic ranks and disaster for the party.

When W. J. Bryan was informed of Governor Wilson's announcement, he said: "I think that both Governor Wilson's conclusions and his reasons are sound, and I have expected the special session. I hold that the tariff question is the principal one before the people for discussion by congress, and it will doubtless prove so."

Colonel Bryan declined to state what he regards as other important questions which should be brought up promptly for legislative action, saying that there are several of them, as laid down in the Baltimore platform.

"I am strongly in favor," he added, "of carrying out the promises made to the American people in the Baltimore platform."

Champ Clark said: "We made certain definite promises in order to win at the last election, and we ought to carry them out religiously. I have no doubt we will keep faith with the people. I favor a special session at as early a date as possible after the inauguration to revise the tariff and do such other things as appear meet and proper. The country has a right to know what we intend to do."

"Calamity howlers will not be able to precipitate a panic this time," said he.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

The revolution in the republic of Santo Domingo is spreading over the entire country, and it is said that the fall of the government is a matter of only a few days.

While a new British naval 13.5-inch gun was being tested opposite Sheerness, it burst, some of the fragments being blown three miles. Thirteen persons were injured.

There were 1,453 men killed in and about coal mines of the United States during the first eight months of this year, according to an announcement of the bureau of mines.

Joaquin Miller, poet of the Sierras, who has been near death for several months because of the effects of a paralytic stroke, is now walking about again and regaining his old-time vigor.

Senator Bailey's resignation will not go into effect until after the coming opening of congress. He plans to make a farewell speech which he says will be the greatest effort of his public life.

As all the great powers are said to be unanimously in favor of proclaiming the autonomy of Albania, and as no great power is ready to espouse Serbia's quarrel against Austria, peace prospects are most favorable.

The German government's petroleum monopoly does not intend to exclude the Standard Oil company, but the government believes that the corporation, once realizing and appreciating the new situation, will adapt itself to the new conditions and will also sell to the German monopoly.

TURKS GIVE UP TO INEVITABLE

Resigned to Inexorable Decrees of Fate.

APATHETIC OVER DISASTER

Possessed of the Idea That it is Not Written in the Book of Fate That the State Shall Be Saved, the Ottoman Government Seems Incapable of Further Efforts to Save Its Possessions in Europe.

Essen, Germany, Nov. 16.—The Russian workmen in the Rhine provinces have started for Russia in response to telegrams ordering them to rejoin the reserves.

London, Nov. 16.—Bulgaria has abandoned her intention of occupying Constantinople, one correspondent at Constantinople states, as a consequence of the vigorous action taken by Russia and Great Britain at Sofia. Another correspondent, on the other hand, quotes the Turkish foreign office as stating that if the territorial conditions offered prove acceptable there will be no difficulty in arranging some form of entry by the belligerent troops. As far as the Turkish government is concerned, this probably means, adds the correspondent, that the question of an entry has already been settled.

The correspondent of another paper says that the Turkish ministers held a long and anxious meeting at which the reports from the commanders at the front were considered. These reports state bluntly that the Turkish position is absolutely hopeless. Tchataldja cannot hold out for many days, at the best. The correspondent says that cholera has played immense havoc within the Turkish ranks. The sanitary conditions are deplorable. Yesterday's mortality amounted to 2,000.

The correspondent goes on to say: "The Turkish commanders are in despair, as it is impossible to stay the increase of the terrible visitation of disease, which has appeared in the most virulent form. The deaths already amount to five figures. Those attacked by cholera are simply left to die without the slightest attention."

"The Will of Allah."

"An atmosphere of resignation to the inexorable decrees of fate has settled over the imperial, civil and military authorities. All seem incapable of further efforts to save the state and have become prepossessed with the idea that it is not written in the book of fate that the state will be saved. European Turkey is regarded as lost beyond recall, and the little emotion of which Turkish character is capable is devoted to shedding a few mild tears over the possibility of losing even a portion of Constantinople."

"The Turks are apathetic over the disaster which brought about the fall of the empire, and they seem incapable of making one final effort to save something from the wreck. We hear no more of dying in the last ditch at Tchataldja. The Turks know perfectly well that against the Bulgarian artillery they are helpless and that the rabble which passes under the name of an army will be driven back into Constantinople whenever the Bulgarians care to press home their attack. Constantinople is largely ignorant of the awful conditions at the front and remains extraordinarily calm. Business continues as usual and the music halls and other places of amusement are filled nightly with gay crowds, as though there was nothing so remote as war. A no more unlike city with an enemy hammering at its gates can be imagined."

"It is estimated that 50,000 refugees already have been shipped to Asia Minor. The overcrowding on the ships is terrible. The sanitary arrangements in the Ottoman capital are hopelessly inadequate. A serious outbreak of disease is inevitable. The plight of the refugees, left to shift for themselves as regards food and clothing, is deplorable and, packed like cattle on the ships, they present a most pitiful spectacle, especially the very young and the very old."

"The weather here is very warm, and all conditions are present for an outbreak and a spread of disease. I visited several mosques today, including St. Sophia. There, save for the corners reserved for religious ceremonies, the whole building was taken up with soldiers and refugees, sleeping, eating, cooking and doing all sorts of work."

Had Been Reading Dime Novel.
Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16.—A fifteen-year-old boy, who is under arrest here, told the police he placed a large chain across the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad track near the city several weeks ago and then ran up the track and flagged the fast Dixie Flyer in order to play hero. When the train was stopped he was hailed as a hero. The boy had been reading dime novels.

Abandon Hope of Recovery.
Washington, Nov. 16.—Senator Isidor Rayner, who has been seriously ill for several days, is gradually growing worse. All hope of his recovery has been abandoned.

BASEBALL MEN TO MEET AT RICHMOND

Sunday November, 24 Time Set For Re-Organization of Indiana State League.

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

The first meeting in connection with the re-organization of the Indiana State baseball league will be held Sunday, Nov. 24, at the Westcott hotel in Richmond, says the Newcastle Courier. Dal Williams, manager of the Maxwell club, is perfecting the arrangements for the meeting and the re-organization and is meeting with much success. The outlook for a better and faster league than ever is promising and there is every indication that baseball will be unusually prosperous in eastern Indiana during the season of 1933.

At the meeting in Richmond the cities of Rushville, Connersville, Cambridge City, Newcastle, Indianapolis, T. T's and Richmond will be represented.

Manager Williams went to Muncie today to complete arrangements for the placing of that city in the circuit.

Somewhat ponderous book in tooled leather and with extra pages inserted between the Old Testament and the New for recording marriages, birth and deaths. On the page apportioned to deaths there is but one entry. It states that Sanford Stone, infant son of Solomon and Mary Stone, died May 26, 1852.

"That is the only death that has ever occurred in our family," said Mrs. Stone, as she smoothed the page with her wrinkled hand and spelled out the name and date with her tired eyes. "He was just a little fellow, the third one that came to us, and he went away so long ago—so long ago—and yet it seems but yesterday." Her lips were trembling, her eyes misty and her voice was full of yearning. She was still grieving for the baby who had died in that springtime sixty years ago.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stone are confident they will be spared to eat at least one more Thanksgiving dinner together. Their minds are unclouded and their memories are remarkably accurate. Mary's is slightly better than Solomon's. Whenever Solomon makes an error as to the exact date on which anything happened along about elder making time in 1844, Mary gets after him immediately and sets him right. She says Solomon was always a strictly truthful man, but occasionally a bit careless about dates.

23 FOR HIM.

According to his sworn election statement filed with the clerk of the circuit court today, Albert C. Stevens, Republican candidate for prosecutor of the sixteenth judicial district, spent $23 in his campaign for election. For advertisement he spent $13 and for car fare $10.

LOCALS HOPE TO KEEP SCORE DOWN

Little Chance to Win From Fast Brownsburg Team But Will Put Up Fight.

BATTLE THIS AFTERNOON

Dope on the football game this afternoon between the local high school team and Brownsburg high school, pointed to a Brownsburg victory but Rushville hoped to hold the visitors to a low score. Coach George Reitel and his bunch of huskies from Brownsburg arrived here shortly after noon and were eager for the battle.

As far as weight was concerned the two teams appeared to be about evenly matched but Brownsburg was conceded the advantage on account of superior coaching. According to the coach Brownsburg will average in weight 142 pounds. The two teams lined up as follows:

Rushville—Frazier, R. E.; Green, R. F. McMahan, R. G.; Hudrick, C.; Mauzy, L. G.; Pea, L. T.; Griffin, Q.; Brann, B. B.; Watson, L. H.; McDonald, R. H.

FORBES SAYS HE WILL APPEAL CASE

His Objections To Way Ripley Township Highway Was Built Overruled by Commissioners.

BOARD TAKES LOOK AT ROAD

When the county commissioners today announced they would accept the James Forbes highway in Ripley township over the objections of James Forbes, the latter declared he would appeal the case to the circuit court. The board reached this decision after the members viewed the road this morning.

Forbes filed objections before the board several days ago, alleging Wilk & Co., the builders, did not live up to the plans and specifications in many ways. The hearing lasted Thursday and Friday, and the commissioners, not being satisfied the contractors had not built the road according to plans, went out to see for themselves this morning.
